THE STORAGE OF FROZEN MEAT.

The LONDON and ST. KATHERINE DOCKS COMPANY have found it necessary to add very considerably to their already large accommodation for the storage of frozen meat at the Royal Victoria and Albert Docks, and further space, capable of holding over 20,000 carcases of mutton, was yesterday occupied.

The Docks Company's Chambers being all situated near the ships discharging, offer special advantages in consequence of the speedy conveyance of the meat from the ship to the store, and as the railway lines are also in direct communication with the chambers, the meat can be loaded direct into railway trucks and delivery made the following morning at the principal country railway stations.

The chambers are fitted with electric light, and all the latest improvements.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT—MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14.

In Banco.—(Before their Honors Mr. Justice INNES, Mr. Justice DEFFELL, and Mr. Justice OWEN.)

PROUDFOOT V. PROCTOR.

Mr. W. J. Foster and Mr. Ralston, instructed by Mr. W. C. Proctor, appeared for the appellant (defendant), to move to make absolute a rule nisi for a new trial of the above action; and Mr. Pilcher, and Mr. Cohen appeared for the plaintiff to show cause. The action, which was tried in December 16, 17, and 18 last year, was brought by David Proudfoot against Wm. C. Proctor to recover the penalty provided under the 29th section of the Constitution Act against any person who sat and voted in the Legislative Assembly while he was interested in a Government contract. It was alleged by plaintiff in the present case that defendant did so sit and vote while holding an interest in a railway contract, and, after a considerable amount of evidence had been taken, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, with damages £500. It was now sought to set the verdict aside on the following grounds:—1. That his Honor was wrong in telling the jury that if they found that a certain document, by which one Logan purported to assign to defendant a contract which had been entered into by the said Logan with the Commissioner for Railways, was intended to take effect as a deed of assignment (though only held as a security) from the date of its execution by the said Logan, they must find for the plaintiff. 2. That his Honor ought to have told the jury that the defendant must have been bound under obligation, and responsible to the Government, in order to bring him within the objects and provisions of the 28th and 29th sections of the Act, 18 and 19 Vic., cap. 54.

The evidence having been read,

Mr. Foster said the question was whether there was anything in the assignment which came within the four corners of the declaration which was framed in the terms of section 28 of the Constitution Act. The 28th and 29th sections were identical with the operative part of the English statute, which was passed in the year 1782, and he had endeavoured to find something as to the object with which that English statute was passed, and the only authority he could find was that in May, which said that it was for the purpose of preventing the Crown from having an influence over members. The object was not such as was suggested here, namely—that members should not have an influence over the Government, but that the Government should not have an influence over members. At the time Fox's Government came into office almost the whole of the contracts for war material were in the hands of members of the House of Commons. At that time there was nothing to prevent members from being contractors with the Government, and it was said during the debates that these contractors having obtained a fat contract, might be told by the Government "We have given you a fat contract, and we want a good vote." The Government were in a position then to say "You shall carry out your contract strictly, or we can let you off in such a way as that it will be to your advantage." But, in order to do that the person must be in some way bound to the Government, as of course a person having a Government contract would be. There had been one case tried in England since that Act was passed, and that was the case of Pearce v. Thompson, Moore's Reports, page 261. That was not directly in point, but it touched a principle involved in this case, and it would be found to go to the effect of the statute which was meant to prevent direct contract with the Government. He contended that the assignment in this case had nothing whatever to do with a contract with the Government, and Mr. Proctor was exactly in the same position as a man who attached a debt due to a debtor by the Government. In Equity, Logan could not be held to be a trustee for Proctor, and he did not become a trustee "undertaking, executing, holding, or enjoying" the contract on Mr. Proctor's behalf. He also pointed out that the assignment was not to come into operation until default was made.

Mr. Pilcher, on the other side, argued that in determining this question they had to consider what the Legislature intended, and whether they gave effect to that intention. It could not be denied that the intention was that members of Parliament should be put outside the possibility of being corrupted by obtaining emoluments from the Government. The 28th section enacted that a member of Parliament should not hold his seat if he directly or indirectly held or enjoyed a Government contract or had derived any emolument or benefit from it. If the assignment was not a direct violation of the Act, then the Act was a perfect farce and a fraud upon the Statute Book of the colony. There was no question that the assignment passed the whole contract whether the Commissioner assented to it or not, and Mr. Proctor could go to the Treasury and get the money and the Government had no power in the world to prevent him from getting it, putting it in his pocket, or placing it in the bank to reduce the overdraft.

Mr. Foster having replied,

Mr. Justice INNES said that the Bench were all of opinion that the defendant had not exposed himself to the penalties which were sought to be recovered in this action. It was necessary, in his opinion, in order to ensure the success of an action of this kind, that the defendant must have entered into a contract or agreement for or on account of the public service, and he did not think that the defendant had, within the meaning of section 28 of the Constitution Act, entered into such contract or agreement. Every contract must necessarily have two parties to it, and in all contracts contemplated by the section, the Government, it seemed to him, must be one of the parties. An agreement had no doubt been entered into here which had reference to a contract which had been entered into by Mr. Logan for or on account of the public service; and a contract had been entered into by Mr. Proctor, but not a contract with the Government. In other words, Mr. Proctor himself had not entered into a contract for or on behalf of the public service within the meaning of section 28 of the Constitution Act. The case depended, of course, upon the construction of the 28th and 29th sections of our Constitution Act, 18 and 19 Vic., chapter 54, and it was necessary to look somewhat closely at the wording of those two sections in determining this case. Section 28 dealt with two classes of persons who might become exposed to the penalties which were imposed under certain circumstances by section 29. First of all, it dealt with any person or persons who, not being at the time members of the Legislative Council or Assembly, "shall, directly or indirectly, himself or by any person whatsoever in trust for him or for his use or benefit, or on his account, undertake, execute, hold, or enjoy in the whole or in any part any contract or agreement for or on account of the public service, shall be incapable of being summoned, or elected, or of sitting, or voting as a member of the Legislative Council or Legislative Assembly during the time he shall execute, hold, or enjoy any such contract or any part or share thereof, or any benefit or emolument arising from the same." Well, it seemed to him, looking at that part of the section in connection with the second branch of it, which dealt with persons who, at the time of entering into a contract, were members of the Legislative Council or Assembly, that, although the words were not the same, still the persons referred to in the first branch of the section must be persons who had entered into a contract, and who were really contractors, and not that they were, as the argument of Mr. Pilcher would go the length of contending, persons who were indirectly interested in a contract, the interest being so remote and so indirect that it would really exclude the creditor of a contractor with the Government, a person who by reason of the circumstances of the debtor might not be able to obtain payment of the debt from the contractor except by means of the money which the contractor might receive in virtue of his contract. In that sense there would be an interest in the contract, an interest which practically, no doubt, would touch the person having a contract with the contractor, and being a creditor of the contractor, it would touch him somewhat nearly; but he did not think it would include such persons with regard to liability under Section 29 of the Act. He thought it must mean—as his Honor below ruled—some person who held a contract. The second branch of Section 28 ran thus: "And if any person being a member of such Council or Assembly shall enter into any such contract or agreement, or having entered into it shall continue to hold it, his seat shall be declared by the said Legislative Council or Legislative Assembly, as the case may require, to be void, and, thereupon the same shall become and be void accordingly." There were two distinct branches in the section, and as he had already stated, he thought that in both it was necessary for the person referred to be a contractor, though in regard to the first branch of the section it was perhaps not absolutely necessary so to hold, because what they had now to deal with was the case of a person being a member of the Legislative Council or Assembly, and thus coming under the second branch of section 28. Then, with regard to the penalty, the concluding part of the 29th section was as follows:—"And if any person under any of the disqualifications mentioned in the last preceding section shall, whilst so disqualified, presume to sit or vote as a member of the said Council or Assembly, such person shall forfeit the sum of £500, to be recovered by any person who shall sue for the same in the Supreme Court of New South Wales." The declaration in this case was somewhat cunningly framed, because, although by it it was alleged that defendant was a member of the Legislative Council or Assembly, it did not go on to say that he entered into a contract, and that, having entered into such contract or agreement, he presumed to sit and vote; but it harked back to the preceding part of the section, and charged defendant that, being elected a member of, and while such member, "he did by himself, or by some person or persons in trust for him, and for his own use and benefit, and on his account, undertake, execute, hold, and enjoy a certain contract or agreement for or on account of the public service." It seemed to him that the declaration ought strictly to have been framed on the words of the concluding branch of section 28, though he did not see that it was in any way demurrable, because it did allege that the defendant was a contractor, or the holder of a contract, for or on behalf of the public service. He did not think defendant had exposed himself to the penalties under section 29 of the Act. It was true that he had taken an assignment of the contract, but what was the contract? It was one which he certainly did not enter into originally, and it was a contract entered into apparently when he was an absolute stranger to the transaction. There was no suggestion that the defendant was in contemplation in any way at the time of the original contract being entered into, and there was no suggestion that Logan and Proudfoot, or either of them, in any way originally entered into this contract in trust for Mr. Proctor. Mr. Proctor was an absolute stranger to it as far as he could see, and was not in contemplation, either when the contract was made with the Government, or at any future time. What took place after the contract was entered into? Proudfoot ceased to be a party to it, and Logan continued to be the contractor with the Government. Some time subsequently Logan, finding himself in financial difficulties and being in want of financial assistance, applied to Mr. Proctor to secure him that assistance, and ultimately Mr. Proctor became one of three guarantors to the bank for the necessary advance. And he took as security for this advance an assignment of the contract of which he certainly could not have made any practical use until default had been made on Logan's part of some of the stipulations. In the original contract there was a clause to which their attention had been properly directed, namely, that the contract was not to be assigned without the consent of the Government, who were one of the contracting parties to the contract. Now it was admitted that the consent of the Government was never asked, never obtained, and no notice of any kind was given to the Government of this so-called assignment between Mr. Logan and Mr. Proctor, and there could be no question whatever that no privity ever arose between Proctor and the Government. Mr. Proctor had no rights as against the Government, and the Government, in the then state of circumstances, had no rights as against Mr. Proctor. There was no mutual consideration, nor was there any mutual obligation so far as Proctor and the Government were concerned. But then it was argued that, inasmuch as Logan, for a valuable consideration, assigned his contract to Proctor, and had given him as full and good an assignment as he could, that from that time forth Logan held the contract simply in trust for Proctor. He was of opinion that that argument could not be supported. The only way in which such an argument could be maintained, would be by the importation into the transaction of the equitable doctrine that under those circumstances Logan would be declared by a Court of Equity a trustee for Proctor. A trustee for what? A trustee of the moneys which Logan would receive, and the benefits which he would derive under the contract, but in no way exonerating Logan from his obligation to the Government, and in no way placing Proctor in the place of Logan in the contract in reference to the Government. This, it must be remembered, was a penal statute. The action was of a penal character, as put before the Court, and before the defendant in an action of this kind could be mulct in the prescribed penalty, the jury—the Court before whom he was tried—must be satisfied that he had committed the offence charged against him, and by reason of which he had exposed himself to this fine. It was a well understood rule that penal acts must be strictly construed, and it did not seem to him to be competent for the Court in any way to invoke some equitable doctrine between trustee and a cestui que trust, for the purpose of making out a penal action. In one sense no doubt the defendant had become interested in the contract; but for the reasons which he held he did not think he could be looked upon as having become either directly or indirectly, either by himself or by any person on his account, a contractor with the Government for or on account of the public service; and still less could it be contended that while a member of the Legislative Council or Assembly he entered into a contract; nor did he think that the effect of the transaction between Proctor and Logan could be looked upon as amounting to the state of things that Mr. Proctor, while a member of the Assembly, and though not a party to the original contract, subsequently entered into it. For these reasons he thought a new trial should be granted, though as the Court were unanimous, it was not likely that the case would be tried a second time. He also desired to point out that in the case of Thompson and Pearce, the only one to which they had been referred, it was alleged that the defendant, being a contractor with the Government, became a member of Parliament, and his case, therefore, came within the first branch of the section.

Mr. Justice DEFFELL fully concurred with Sir George Innes as to the true interpretation to be given to the words of the second portion of the 28th section of the Act. It seemed to him that it clearly destroyed the argument that the mere question of interest, directly or indirectly, could be sufficient to support a verdict in an action which was one of a criminal nature.

Mr. Justice OWEN also concurred.

Rule made absolute with costs; costs of former trial to abide the event of the new trial.

BROUGHTON V. CHAPPEL AND ANOTHER.

Mr. A. H. Simpson and Mr. Cohen, instructed by Mr. H. A. Lyons, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Heydon and Dr. Sly, instructed by Dr. G. J. Sly, for the defendants. This was an action to settle the question of title to about five acres of land at Botany. The action is brought by Thomas Broughton against Herbert Chappel and Robert Hobart Caunter, and the following were the issues for trial:—1. Whether Thomas Vincent obtained a title in himself by independent possession of the land in dispute, or of any part thereof, consisting of five acres or thereabouts, situated in the parish of Botany, county of Cumberland; 2, whether Thomas Vincent was in possession of such land as servant of the said Thomas Broughton for 20 years; 3, whether an indenture of conveyance of 23rd December, 1866, made by William Charles (as trustee of the insolvent estate of John Robert Hatfield) of the first part, and Thomas Broughton of the second part, operated to vest the estate in fee simple of the said land in Thomas Broughton.

The case stands as part heard.

In Equity.—(Before his Honor the CHIEF JUSTICE.)

SMITH V. NERNEY (PART HEARD).

For the plaintiff, Frederick Smith, Mr. C. J. Manning (with him Mr. Heydon), instructed by Messrs. Holdsworth and Evans; and for the defendant, Mary Nerney, Mr. Gannon, instructed by Mr. F. Gannon.

The plaintiff, as one of the trustees of the will of John Nerney, late of Waverley, deceased, asked that a caveat lodged by defendant against probate of the will being granted might be removed.

The grounds of the plaintiff's suit were that on the 2nd March last John Nerney executed his will, by which he appointed Frederick Smith, the plaintiff, and John Powell trustees and executors. On 7th June last Nerney died at Waverley, leaving his wife surviving him and several children. By his will he left property amounting to about £6000 to various charities and as legacies to relatives. He left his eldest daughter £3000, and his wife £200 and a house; but he excluded his three younger children altogether. The defendant entered a caveat against probate being granted to the plaintiff, on account of the testator being of unsound mind.

The chief issue before the Court was whether John Nerney at the time of the execution of his will was of sound mind, memory, and understanding.

On the case being resumed,

Father Callachor said that Mrs. Nerney knew that she was not fully provided for in the will; witness saw that there would be litigation, he thought that his duties as a priest would be interfered with, and accordingly declined to undertake the position of executor; had he known the three children were unprovided for, he would not have witnessed the will; he never knew anything wrong with Mrs. Nerney, and she seemed generally to have treated her husband with kindness.

Counsel proceeded to address the Court.

HIS HONOR said the case before him was one of a very painful nature, and one calculated to arouse sympathy, for whichever way the decision went unmerited hardship was inflicted. On the one hand there was a widow scarcely provided for and helpless children left penniless, and on the other a number of innocent legatees would have their just expectations defeated. In a case of this kind, however, there was no room for sympathy; and if the plaintiff, upon whom rested the proof that this was the will of a man of sound mind, had established that position to his Honor's satisfaction, no matter how much he might individually feel for the widow and the little children—no matter what might be his feelings of abhorrence towards the deceased, or his opinion of his unmitigated wickedness—he must, according to the law of the colony, which he had to administer, decide in favour of the will. In order to set aside this will, it was not enough for him to come to the conclusion that it was a cruel will, emanating from a cruel, wicked, malicious, and debased man; but he must come to the conclusion, upon the evidence before him, that it was the will of a man who was not of sound mind. The onus of proof of soundness of mind rested upon those who propounded a will. They must show that the testator had the mental power to know those who ought to be the recipients of his bounty, and had sufficient understanding to comprehend the relationship to himself of those who, according to the ordinary feelings of mankind, were supposed to have claims to his consideration when providing for the disposition of his property after his death; and the question was had the plaintiff done this? His Honor then referred to a passage from the judgment of Lord Chief Justice Cockburn in Banks v. Goodfellow, 5 L. R., Q. B., 549-565. The plaintiff's case was that the testator was a shrewd capable man of business; that for the every-day transactions of life he was well fitted; that he bought and sold and managed his estate; that from being a man of little or no means at the time of his marriage in 1876, he became, for his position in life, a comparatively wealthy man at the time of his death, and this notwithstanding that for many years past he drank hard, and ultimately died from the effects of drink. The testator was also said to have been a well-read man, and possessed of a very retentive memory for that which he read, and the witnesses who so spoke of him naturally concluded that, being very capable for the conduct of all the usual transactions of life, he was capable of making a will. On the other hand, the defendant, while on the whole, admitting the capability of the testator for the conduct of the ordinary affairs of life, contended that he was the subject of delusions affecting her and affecting the children, and that the dispositions contained in the will were so inseparably connected with these delusions as in themselves to evince that the testator was of unsound mind. It was but reasonable when a man made a will which was neither consonant with natural affection or with moral duty to inquire whence this arose. If a reason were given for it, and if apparently upon this the testator acted, and if the testator himself gave reasons for so acting, then the inquiry at once arose were there such facts in existence as to justify the testator in forming the belief which he apparently formed, and which led him to act as he did; then, if it should turn out there were no such facts, and that the whole thing was the outcome of a diseased brain, one at once had a delusion established intimately connected with the provisions of the will, and the presence of such a delusion augured unsoundness of mind and incapacity to make a will. The fact of delusions existing which, if connected with the provisions of a will, rendered a man of unsound mind for the purpose of making such will, was quite compatible with shrewdness in business and the most perfect capacity for money-making. This was well illustrated in the case of Dew v. Clarke, 3, Addison's Eccl., 79; Broughton v. Knight, 3, L. R. P., 64; and Smee v. Smee, 5, L. R. P. D., 84. Now, admitting that the testator was a man of intelligence and ordinary mental capacity, and that if the will were to be set aside because of delusions existing in his mind, so connected with the making of the provisions attested in the will as to show that the testator was of unsound mind, what were the facts? His Honor then referred at length to the history of the case. He pointed out that, at his death, Nerney was 56 years of age; that he was married in 1876, and that he seemed to have formed an insane jealousy concerning his wife. He appeared to have treated her with great cruelty. A child was born in 1877, and between the birth of that child and the birth of the next in 1880 he made his first will, dated 2nd March, 1880, in which he cut his wife off with £10 only. A child was born on the 27th June, 1880, and there was no provision in the will for that child, although at the time it was made the child was within three months of being born. Other children were subsequently born, but the will still remained which made no provision for them. It was part of the case for the plaintiff that this idea of Nerney's, that his three latter children were not his own, was not a delusion, but that his wife had told him this. There was no evidence of this beyond Nerney's own statement. If this statement were shouted out before his neighbours, as Nerney had said it was, they must have heard it, but there was not a single neighbour—and they had called a number of persons who had lived next door to him—who ever heard the wife say a word of the husband which a wife ought not to say. It seemed unnatural that a woman should say such a thing of her own children. Even although she might have been unfaithful to him, it would be the last thing which would enter into her mind. His Honor did not believe, for his part, that she ever made such a statement, even although he saw that she was a woman of excitable disposition, and even hysterical temperament. She swore herself that she never made the statement; there was no evidence beyond the assertion of the man that she ever did, and, therefore, as a jury, he found that the statement was never made. Dr. Powell, one of the witnesses for the plaintiff, had explained that the man was an habitual drunkard from 1879 to the time of his death. He was always under the influence of drink, and the witness seemed to think that he endeavoured to make an excuse for drinking. The excuse he gave was that he was miserable in his home, and he made these charges against his wife to excuse himself for the course of life he led, and as reasons why he could not break it off. Well, these charges of unfaithfulness, which the testator made against his wife, his Honor found, from the evidence, to be utterly and entirely groundless. With respect to the wife, there was a large mass of evidence coming from a respectable class of witnesses in her own position of life, and they thought that the charge against her was utterly groundless. They spoke of her as being a woman of good character, who took the utmost care of her children, a woman who had a great deal to put up with, with a wretched, miserable, and drunken husband. If there had been the slightest foundation for this man's unreasonable suspicion, it was certain that some of these people would have known of it. If, too, it had been possible to produce any evidence in support of the truth of the suspicions it would have been brought forward by the plaintiff. He thought these suspicions were utterly groundless, and were the illusions of a diseased brain. They knew, as Dr. Powell and Dr. Wilkinson had told them, that with men habitually drunk for years, although they might be able to conduct the ordinary work of buying and selling, their brain readily became the subject of delusion. This man believed that every woman was immoral; that was a delusion, and showed he had an unhealthy brain. The whole thing, indeed, was the offspring of a diseased and unhealthy mind. He irresistibly came to the conclusion that the will of 1887 was a will made by a man suffering from a diseased brain, which caused these delusions, unfounded in fact. It was impossible for it to stand; he declared against it; and the will of 1880, which bore inherent evidence of the same delusions, fell with it. He therefore declared against both wills, and found that John Nerney died intestate in law, and ordered that the costs of both sides come out of the estate.

O'CONNOR V. NORTH.

For the plaintiff, Mr. Salomons, Mr. C. J. Manning, and Mr. C. G. Heydon (instructed by Mr. Shepherd), and for defendants, Mr. A. H. Simpson, with Mr. Pilcher (instructed by Messrs. Holdsworth and Evans).

The suit was brought by Daniel O'Connor against J. B. and J. G. North, stock and share brokers, to force the defendants to complete a contract between them having regard to certain shares in the Broken Hill Proprietary Company at Silverton. The plaintiff stated that on the 3rd June, 1886, upon the application of the defendants, he lent them 20 shares in the company for three months, the consideration being the return of the shares and £20 for the loan. The plaintiff claimed the return of the shares. For the defence it was contended that plaintiff's shares were bought, and that 20 shares were sold to him to be delivered three months after date. Default was admitted in the delivery of the return shares. Defendants submitted that under the circumstances it would be inequitable to compel them to purchase shares at the present market price, which had risen greatly of late, in order to transfer them to plaintiff, and that plaintiff would be fully compensated by damages.

The plaintiff and the defendant and other witnesses were examined, and the case stands as part heard.

In Lunacy.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice OWEN.)

RE GEORGE KING (PART HEARD).

His Honor delivered judgment in this matter. Previously Mr. G. Knox had appeared for the Master in Lunacy to ask the advice of the Court as to the legality of a settlement of property made by the patient upon his wife; and Mr. C. J. Manning represented the patient's wife, Jemima King. The circumstances were somewhat peculiar, and raised the important point of whether a lunatic could, in a lucid moment, himself dispose of his property, or whether it is by law vested in the Master in Lunacy.

HIS HONOR said:—In this case George King was admitted as an insane patient into the Hospital for the Insane at Callan Park on the 20th December, 1884. He was permitted to be absent from the hospital upon trial, under the 82nd section of the Lunacy Act, from the 16th September to the 7th December, 1885, when he was brought back to the hospital. He remained there from the 7th December, 1885, to the 16th of August last, when he was again allowed out on trial under the above section. On the 14th day of November, 1885, while he was absent on trial, King executed a settlement of some land near Parramatta on his wife. During the time he was in the hospital King was maintained as a pauper patient, and no moneys were paid for his maintenance. Hearing of the execution of this settlement, the Master in Lunacy presented a petition to the Court, under the 142nd section of the Lunacy Act, claiming to recover possession of the lands comprised in the settlement. The matter in the first instance came before the Chief Justice, sitting for the Primary Judge, and he granted a rule nisi calling on Mrs. King to show cause; and on the 4th November the case was argued before me by Mr. G. Knox, for the Master in Lunacy, and by Mr. C. J. Manning, for Mrs. King. It was admitted that an insane patient who was allowed out on trial under the 82nd section was still an insane patient within the meaning of the Lunacy Act. No evidence was given of the actual state of mind of George King at the time of the execution of the settlement, but it was contended that an insane patient, until discharged, could not alienate his property; that the powers conferred by the Act on the Master in Lunacy prevented such alienation. The power and duties of the Master in respect to estates of insane patients are defined in part 8, subdivision 1, section 141 of the Act. "The Master in Lunacy shall have, in respect of the property and estate of any insane patient, in addition to the general powers conferred upon him in subdivision 1 of this part, all the like powers and authorities, subject to the like limitations as are hereinafter in subdivision 3 of this part, given to the committees of the estate of an insane person. In subdivision 1, section 105, it is provided that, subject to and in accordance with the regulations of the Governor-in-Council and the general rules of the Supreme Court, and to any special order of the said Court, the Master in Lunacy shall undertake the general care, protection, and management, or supervision of the management of the estates of all insane persons and patients in New South Wales, and . . . . . . shall take care of, collect, and administer, under the provisions of this Act, the property and estates of all insane patients." The following sections, 106 to 140, in subdivision 1, and the whole of subdivision 3, deal in detail with the powers of protection and management of the estates of insane patients and persons. In none of these sections is the estate of the insane patient vested in the Master, but he is given very full powers of management and control for his benefit; and, under section 144, he may, out of the estate of a patient, pay for his maintenance such sums as may seem expedient and reasonable. Section 142, under which this application is made, provides that "if any real or personal property of an insane patient be wrongfully held, detained, converted, or injured, or if any sum of money be due and owing to such patient, the Master in Lunacy may as such Master claim and recover possession of such property or damages for the conversion or injury thereof," and the Court may make an order requiring the defendant to give up possession of such property. Mr. Knox contended that under this section the Court could treat the settlement executed by King while an "insane patient" as absolutely void, and direct Mrs. King to give up possession of the lands comprised in it. Having given the case very careful consideration, I have come to the conclusion that a deed executed under these circumstances is not void, but only voidable. The right of an insane patient to deal with his property is not taken away by the Act, but by the general law, that a person of unsound mind cannot alienate. The powers of care, protection, and management conferred on the Master do not divest the patient of his estate, or take from him, if shown to be at the time of sound and disposing mind, the power to dispose of his property. In every case the capacity or incapacity of the patient must be proved; and if such capacity be proved, the patient can alienate by deed as he undoubtedly can by will. In the case of Selby v. Jackson, 6 Beavan 192, a deed executed by an inmate of a lunatic asylum was upheld, as it was proved that the inmate was of sound mind at the time of the execution of the deed. It was contended that that case did not apply here, as the patient had not been found to be of unsound mind by inquisition, and no committee of the estate had been appointed, and it was argued that if such had been the case the deed would have been void. It was also contended that under the Lunacy Act in this colony an insane patient is in the same position as a person found to be of unsound mind by inquisition in England, and that the position of the Master in Lunacy is the same as that of the committee of the estate of a person so found to be of unsound mind. No case was cited to show that such person in England could not alienate his estate if at the time he was proved to be of sound mind. I was referred to a passage in Bacon's Abridgment, vol. 3, p. 529, which only states that the king shall have the custody of the lands of natural fools, and that such lands shall not be aliened, and the king shall take nothing to his own use. I was also referred to the case of Foster v. Marchant, 1 Vernon, 262, in which it was held that a committee of the estate has an estate but during pleasure, and cannot make leases or encumber the lunatic's estate without special order of the Court. If it were necessary for me to decide the point, I should be inclined to hold that a person found to be of unsound mind by inquisition, could on recovery, and while the inquisition remained in force, alienate his property, but such decision is unnecessary here. It is true that, before a person can be admitted a patient in a hospital for the insane, certificates of his insanity are required; but I cannot hold that the mere fact of such person remaining a patient in such hospital is conclusive evidence that he is of unsound mind, so as to be incapable of alienating his property. The argument must go to this length, that although a patient may be completely recovered, and awaiting only the order for his discharge, or on trial under section 82, awaiting the certificate under that section, that his detention as an insane person is no longer necessary, he cannot alienate his property, because the Master in Lunacy has the care, protection, and management of it. The powers and duties of the Master in Lunacy are strictly defined in the Act, and I have already stated that in my opinion they do not prevent a patient, if shown to be of sound mind, from dealing with his property. As, therefore, I cannot treat this settlement as void, I can make no order under the 142nd section. I think in cases of this sort the deed can only be avoided by a suit in Equity, in which evidence can be given of the actual state of the patient's mind at the time of executing the deed. The question is one of some difficulty and of great importance, and I think the Master was quite justified in bringing it before me. As, however, I must dismiss the petition, I must allow Mrs. King her costs, but the Master will be entitled to retain the costs he pays to her and his own costs out of the fund at his disposal.

In Divorce, Darlinghurst Court.—(Before His Honor Mr. Justice STEPHEN and a jury of twelve.)

COMER V. COMER AND OTHERS.

Mr. Pilcher and Mr. Wylie, instructed by Mr. Nicholls, appeared for the petitioner; Mr. Want and Mr. Gibson, instructed by Mr. W. J. Hill, for the respondent; Mr. Moriarty, instructed by Mr. Banks Smith, for the co-respondent Noble; and Mr. Ralston, instructed by Mr. Banks Smith, for the co-respondent Kirkland.

The petitioner, William Augustus Comer, petitioned for a dissolution of marriage on the ground that the respondent, Grace Ann Comer, had been guilty of adultery at various times with the co-respondents William Henry Howell, Chas. Noble, and George K. Kirkland.

William Augustus Comer, the petitioner, stated that he married the respondent on February 17, 1880; he followed the profession of an auctioneer prior to the marriage, and his wife, who was a widow, was before the marriage a barmaid; they first lived at an hotel at Rushcutter's Bay, and one day on returning home he found his wife sitting in the parlour on a man's knee; afterwards they had a quarrel, and he sold his business and went to live at Bowral, subsequently taking the Royal Hotel at Sutton Forest, where they lived for about two years and a half; from there they went to Bowral and opened a boarding-house, residing at that place until a few months ago; whilst at Sutton Forest the petitioner and respondent got on fairly well together, but latterly she took to drinking heavily; the first serious quarrel occurred early in March, 1886, and on that occasion respondent threatened to poison the petitioner, and he then refused to occupy the same apartment with her; on March 26 respondent left her home suddenly, and a couple of days after she returned, when they had another quarrel, at the close of which the respondent rushed at him with a dagger, and tried to stab him with it; since then they had never cohabited together; on December 1st of last year respondent was living in a cottage at Bowral, and on that date witness saw police constable Noble entered her house at 8 o'clock in the evening, leaving it again at 11 o'clock; he overheard respondent ask Noble to return later in the evening, and at half-past 11 on the same evening witness saw Noble return to the house, where he remained until 3 a.m., being let out again by the respondent, who was in her nightdress; on the night of the 3rd December, between 11 and 12 o'clock, he saw a man approach the house, saw him pick up some gravel, and throw it at a window, and somebody came to the window and let him in; a man named Joseph Riley accompanied the petitioner at the time; seeing some shadows at the window they ascended the balcony by means of a ladder; the respondent and constable Noble were there in the room, and subsequently the light was put out; he watched the house until he saw Constable Noble depart, and he heard respondent ask Constable Noble to come again the next night, which he promised to do; on the 27th or 29th of January saw Constable Noble enter the house again. On a subsequent occasion his wife admitted her adultery with Noble; knew the co-respondent Kirkland, but did not know him during the time witness and his wife were living together; on the 14th March last saw Kirkland driving the respondent in a buggy at Bowral; they drove towards Mittagong, and witness found that they were staying at Murphy's Hotel there, occupying two rooms close to each other; on going upstairs found the co-respondent (Kirkland) coming out of the respondent's room; respondent afterwards came to the petitioner's room and wished to enter, but petitioner refused to allow her to do so; Kirkland afterwards told witness that respondent had passed herself off as a widow, and respondent admitted having done this.

By Mr. Want: Had never received money from his wife, except such sums as he had repaid; on one occasion had been brought up at the police court, charged with grievous assault upon his wife, and was fined £10; this was the only time when he had ever struck his wife, and he had done it then in self-defence; when his wife left him all the servants were discharged except a woman-servant, Emilie Harris, and the gardener; his wife did not discover him behaving improperly with this servant; afterwards his wife obtained a search warrant to search Emilie Harris's boxes, which had been placed in the room which Mrs. Comer formerly occupied, but Emilie Harris herself did not occupy this room; witness admitted having been brought up at the police court on several occasions for minor offences; in July, 1868, witness admitted that he wrote an affectionate letter to his wife in regard to her coming to Moss Vale; he wrote this letter because he wished to make some arrangements with regard to the transfer of a piece of land. Witness was also cross-examined by Mr. Moriarty.

An affidavit by John Ryan was also read, which corroborated the evidence of the petitioner with regard to the adultery of the respondent with the co-respondent Noble.

George Clarke deposed that he formerly kept the Ti-tree boarding-house, at the corner of Margaret and Clarence streets. The photographs of the respondent, and the co-respondent Howell, produced, were those of a lady and gentleman who had stayed as man and wife at his house for one night in June or July 1886.

The case stands as part heard.

JURORS FINED.

The following jurors were fined £3 each for non-attendance at the court:—John Gordon Jackson, Fred. Samuel Connell, Robt. Fowler, J.P., Henry Fay, Chas. T. Hobbs, Wm. Woolfe, William Henley, Alfred Briggs, J. W. F. Fell, and Henry Harris.

In reference to the case of Simpson v. Proudfoot, tried at the Darlinghurst Jury Court on Tuesday, 8th instant, before his Honor Mr. Justice Stephen, we have been requested by Messrs. Fisher, Ralfe, and Salway, solicitors to the defendant, to state that the reason the defendant did not appear in the action was because it had been already arranged.

INSOLVENCY COURT—MONDAY.

(Before the Deputy CHIEF COMMISSIONER.)

RE CHARLES HOST.

Re Charles Host. Insolvent, who was examined by Mr. Bruce Smith, deposed that he was a carpenter; he knew he had to produce his books and file his accounts; some of the books had been shipped to the official assignee, including his ledger and three bank-books; he kept no other books; the extent of his liabilities in 1885 was, to Hutchings Brothers, £60; Goodlet and Co., £40; J. Wilson and Co., £50; T. W. Eady and Sons, £30; and his partner (John Host), £50. Jarman was a partner in 1885; he received two accommodation notes for £50 each about 12 months before November 25, from his brother; witness put £500 into the business; Jarman put £200 cash into it, and witness's brother John put £52 into it, part in 1885 and part in 1886; a draft of partnership was prepared, but it was never in witness's possession, and he refused to sign it; witness traded under the name of C. Host and Co., and their place of business was at Broughton Creek, Shoalhaven. John A. Host, brother of insolvent, deposed that he had an interest in the firm; he paid part of the share, viz., £120, and was to have paid in the balance as the work progressed; he could not say for certain what that balance was, but he believed it was £330. L. C. Host, farmer, deposed that for a short period he was a partner with a man named Cook in a sawmill; the machinery which they had was formerly the machinery used by Host and Company; it was sold by the sheriff to pay a grocer's account for which judgment had been obtained; he arranged to enter into partnership with Cook a day or so before the sale of the machinery; his brother owed him £100, and paid him £14 18s. on the day of the sale; £50 of the amount had been paid off; he did not receive from his brother £150 in August, 1886; witness sold his interest in the machinery to Cook for £60. Adam Jarman deposed that he was an implied partner in the firm of Host and Co.; he never knew that Charles Host paid his brother, L. Host, £50 out of the firm to satisfy a private debt of his own; he never consented to anything of the kind. The meeting was then adjourned.

Re Samuel Bennett Bailey. James Murray, examined by Mr. G. H. Reid, said he knew S. B. Bailey, and knew about his shares in the Brighton Land Company; the cheques produced were drawn by Bailey on the Federal Bank; the first was for £114 3s. 4d., and the second for £90, the first being dated March 31, and the second April 1, 1887; he did not remember Bailey giving him cheques to pay calls on the Brighton Land Company; witness did remember going to arrange to pay calls for him and gave a cheque for £230 to pay the calls; an arrangement was made whereby insolvent was secured from losing his shares; the cheque for £90 might have been paid into witness's account; he could not say whether he received the cheque for £114 3s. 4d. from insolvent; the insolvent's shares were not forfeited. S. B. Bailey was called, and said was sure he handed the last witness the cheque for £114 3s. 4d., and he believed he paid the £90 cheque to his credit whilst he was away; the cheques represented the amount of the call due by witness to the Brighton Land Company; he was not aware the call had been paid before he gave the cheques. The meeting then terminated.

Re Abraham Goldberg. The examination of witnesses in this case was continued by Mr. J. Johnson. Samuel Goldberg deposed that he had two bankbooks, but had not brought them with him. The further examination of this witness was postponed, in order that he might have time to produce the bankbooks.

Percy M'Cauly, examined by Mr. Johnson, said he had searched for the book called "Sales in Abeyance Book," but had failed to find any such book; some of the entries in the book were in witness's handwriting, and some in the handwriting of a boy named Gazzard; the book had only been in use about three or four months before the insolvent stopped payment; the goods entered in this book were goods which were sent out on "appro." or on chance of a sale being effected; he was still prepared to swear that there was such a book in existence and that it only had some 16 or 17 folios written up; he did not know what had become of the book; some goods sent to Tutty and Co., the outside value of which might be £500 or £600, were entered in this book, also goods sent to Harris Levy and a hawker, to the extent of £30 or £40 each; goods amounting to £458 5s. were entered in the ledger as having been supplied to Tutty and Co. in January last; the entry, £150, appearing in Tutty and Co.'s account, was made by witness at the request of the insolvent; it represented money advanced to Tutty and Co., and the sum of £27 8s. 9d., which also appeared, represented the interest; he knew that his master had received bills of accommodation.

The meeting was then adjourned for a week.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14.

(Before His Honor Mr. District Court Judge WILKINSON.)

PENMAN V. SMITHERS.

This was a case in which William Penman, of Sydney, sued the defendant Smithers, residing at Leadenhall Poultry Company, Pitt-street, for the sum of £20 6s. 2d., for work done, material supplied, &c., by the plaintiff. The defendant paid £10 6s. in satisfaction of plaintiff's claim. There was no appearance for the defendant, and his Honor gave a verdict for the plaintiff for the amount claimed.

FAIRFAX AND ANOTHER V. STRONG.

Fairfax and Roberts, of Hunter-street, Sydney, took action to recover from the defendant, H. W. Strong, of Redfern, the sum of £56 19s. 6d., being £52 4s. 6d. overdue promissory note and £5 15s. for a lady's silver hunting watch. The defence was that there never was any value for the payment of the promissory note, and in respect of the watch £5 15s., and 6s. costs, were paid into court. There was no appearance of the defendant, and a verdict was given for the plaintiffs for the sum of £52 4s. 6d.

DAVIES V. KING.

Joseph Davies, of Paddington, sued F. W. King, financial agent, of Sydney, for the sum of £50, commission on the sale of Milson's property, North Shore, for £75,000. The defence set up was that no promise was made as alleged, and the sum of £30 was paid into court in respect of the claim.

His HONOR nonsuited the plaintiff.

CROSSLEY V. HOLMES.

In this case the plaintiff sued the defendant to recover the sum of £33 19s. as compensation for delays alleged to be caused by the defendant to the plaintiff in carrying out a contract for the former in removing certain buildings. The defendant set forth that the plaintiff understood before the contract was entered into the nature of the work, and that there would necessarily be some delay in carring it out. (Part heard.)

DARLINGHURST QUARTER SESSIONS.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14.

(Before his Honor Mr. District Court Judge DOWLING.)

SENTENCES.

Joseph Lee, who was last week convicted of stealing £30 from a dwelling-house, was brought up for sentence. He asked his Honor to allow him to call some witnesses who would prove an alibi. His Honor said he had no objection, and prisoner called three or four Chinamen, who, however, proved nothing. His Honor then sentenced him to be imprisoned for four years in Parramatta gaol, remarking that light sentences were apparently of no use, prisoner having already served quite a number of terms in gaol.

Peter Halkett, who on Friday was found guilty of maliciously wounding Margaret Crouch, was also brought up for sentence. His Honor, after referring to the relations that had existed between the prisoner and his victim, and to the gross character of the assault, ordered him to be sent to Parramatta gaol for three years.

GAROTTING.

William Robinson, a young man about 22, was charged with having on the night of the 21st October, at Newtown, garotted Edwin Pierce, and stolen from him a pipe, knife, and pocket-handkerchief.

Mr. T. C. J. Foster conducted for the Crown.

Mr. S. J. Bull appeared for the prisoner.

From the evidence of the prosecutor and other witnesses, it appears that prosecutor was going home about 10 o'clock on the night of the 21st October, when he was set upon by two men, one of whom struck him a violent blow in the stomach, while the other placed his arm round his neck, which he squeezed so tightly that the unfortunate man fell down insensible. Senior-constable James Joyce deposed to seeing the prisoner and another man bending over a dark body at the very spot where the robbery took place on the evening in question, but he did not consider it was a case of robbery, and therefore did not then arrest the men; but subsequently learning what had occurred, he apprehended the prisoner, who was well known to him, and who had been cautioned by him on the night of the robbery.

For the defence a witness was called, who deposed that he kept a skittle alley; that the prisoner was in his employment, and that he was at the alley on the night of the robbery until after 11 o'clock, never going out after tea at all. Other witnesses who were at the alley on the night in question gave similar evidence on the subject of the prisoner's presence at that place at the time the robbery was said to have taken place.

Several constables gave evidence to the effect that within the last few weeks they had frequently met the prisoner between the hours of 8 o'clock and 10, and one of them deposed to having arrested him on the 15th instant between those hours; but on that occasion he was not detained in custody, because he could not be identified.

After a retirement of an hour and a-half the jury returned into court with a verdict of robbery with violence.

The prisoner was remanded for sentence.

CASES POSTPONED.

William Flavell, a middle-aged man, was charged with indecently assaulting Minnie Olson, a girl under the age of 14 years—to wit, 11 years of age.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

His HONOR stated that the Crown would not proceed with this case until next session.

On the application of Mr. Crick, who appeared for the prisoner, bail was allowed, himself in £80, and two sureties in £40 each.

James Henderson Stuart was charged with maliciously wounding his wife, Caroline Stuart.

This case was also postponed until next session, the same bail being allowed as in the case of the previous prisoner; Mr. T. C. J. Foster, who prosecuted, offering no objection on the part of the Crown.

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

Thomas Elliott, a young man, described as a cabman, was charged with assaulting Frederick Moore at Redfern on the 4th of October, and stealing from him a silver watch, chain, and gold locket, and 20s. in money.

Mr. C. T. Richards defended the prisoner.

The prosecutor in this case is a pearl-diver, and a native of Rotamah, one of the South Sea Islands, and on the day mentioned in the indictment was going about from one place to another drinking. In the evening he was driving about in a cab with two men and two women, and on getting out of the cab at Redfern he was set upon by the whole party (as he alleged) and assaulted and robbed. Subsequently the prisoner, who is a cab-driver, was found in possession of the watch, which he gave to his employer in payment of the sum of 17s. 6d. This employer was also arrested for being in possession of the watch, but was discharged after being in custody for four days. He stated that he had received the watch from the prisoner, who was accordingly arrested by Senior-constable Lewis.

The defence turned on the identity of the watch, it being contended that the one produced, which the prisoner had given to his employer, was not the watch that was stolen; but that prisoner had bought it six months ago in Brisbane, and that it had been in his possession ever since, until it got into the hands of his employer. Quite a number of witnesses, however, were called, who swore positively to the identity of the watch, and traced its progress through different hands for the last six months.

After a brief absence the jury returned into Court, and the foreman asked if they could find the prisoner guilty of being in possession of stolen property?

His HONOR replied that they could not; and even to have stolen property in one's possession unless there was a guilty knowledge, was no offence.

The foreman said that was their verdict—having stolen property in his possession.

His HONOR said this would be tantamount to a verdict of not guilty. There was no second count in the indictment; and unless the jury found the prisoner guilty on the whole indictment, they must return a verdict of not guilty.

The foreman said they did so, and as there was no other charge against the prisoner, he was discharged.

The Court then adjourned.

JURORS FINED.

The following jurors were each fined 40s. for non-attendance:—Daniel Tait, William Brewer, Daniel Smith Mutton, Robert Croker.

CASES FOR TO-DAY.

Eliza Russell, wounding; John Covarr, larceny; Thomas Williams, attempt to steal; Margaret Reddan, alias Russell, keeping a house of ill fame.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The City Coroner, Mr. H. Shiell, J.P., held an inquest yesterday, at South Sydney morgue, touching the death of an infant, whose head was found in a well at the rear of an unoccupied house in Jesson-street, Alexandria, on Friday last. The discovery was made by a man named George Cowperthwaite, who reported the matter to the police. Dr. Milford subsequently examined the head, and came to the conclusion that it was that of a fully-matured infant, and that it had been severed from the body by means of a sharp instrument. The jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against some person or persons unknown.

NEW TOWN HALL, CAMPERDOWN.

The new Town Hall of the municipality of Camperdown, having been completed, was yesterday opened by a very successful banquet. The building is situated two or three hundred yards above the old municipal-chambers, in Parramatta-road, on the same side of the way. It is a very handsome addition to the architecture of the borough, and will fill what has certainly been a much-felt want, for the requirements of the borough have long outgrown the old chambers. The new Town Hall will provide accommodation for the council, and space for holding public meetings. It is of brick, cemented, with iron roof, and presents a very handsome appearance from the street. The main hall is on the ground floor, and is 80ft. long by 35ft. broad. This hall has a wooden ceiling, and at the end there is a very commodious stage or platform, with handsome proscenium, &c. The hall is well lighted by a number of large windows by day, and by a gas sunlight by night. The council-chamber is also a very handsome and commodious apartment, and like the hall has a wooden ceiling prettily ornamented. The ceilings of all the other rooms in the buildings are of plaster with nice decorations. There is a mayor's room, a reading-room, and library, rooms for the town clerk and inspector, together with offices, &c., and in addition to these there are nine rooms on the ground and upper floor let for banking purposes for the sum of £225 a year, which, it is said, is sufficient to pay the interest on the amount of the loan raised in connection with the building, the cost of which, together with the ground on which it stands, was something over £5000, while the amount of loan out of this sum was £4000. The foundation-stone was laid in November of last year. The first contractors were Messrs. Ewd. E. Ayles and Co., but the contract was about three or four months ago assigned to Mr. J. Brown, by whom the work was completed. The architect is Mr. W. Martin, and the design of the new building does him infinite credit.

Yesterday the hall, fresh from the hands of the builders, painters, and decorators, looked its best. Flags floated from all parts of the building and across the roadway, and the interior of the hall had been beautifully decorated with flags, evergreens, and mottoes by Messrs. Sale and Dare, of Hunter-street. About 130 sat down to the banquet, which was provided by Mr. John I. Smith, of King-street. The chair was occupied by the Mayor of Camperdown, Mr. G. H. Sparkes; and the whole of the members of the council were present, viz., Aldermen Larkin, S. Procter, Porter, Jonson, Cahill, Morgan, Abigail, and Bennett. Then, in addition to quite a number of aldermen from neighbouring boroughs, there were the mayors of the following municipalities:—Sydney, Marrickville, Leichhardt, Ashfield, and Redfern. The Hon. F. Abigail, who arrived somewhat late, also graced the proceedings, as well as the following members of the Legislative Assembly:—Messrs. W. J. Foster, Withers, Schey, Stephen, F. Farnell, F. J. Gibbes, X. Hawken, and Hawthorne. Among other gentlemen was Mr. G. W. Griffin (United States Consul) and Mr. J. Fowler, J.P.

The usual loyal toasts were proposed by the Mayor, and drunk with unbounded enthusiasm. The vice-regal toast of "The Governor" elicited quite a furore of applause.

Alderman P. LUCAS (of the Glebe) proposed "The Ministry."

Mr. FOSTER, in the absence of any Minister at that stage, responded as an ex-Minister.

Alderman LARKINS (of Camperdown) proposed "The Parliament," in a eulogistic speech.

The whole of the ten members of Parliament present responded.

The Hon. F. ABIGAIL in the course of his remarks addressed himself principally to the toast of "The Ministry." He said they desired to bring forward good measures, but on account of the precious time wasted by the Opposition they were unable to get on with the business of the country so rapidly as they could wish. (Applause.) The land question was a most important one. No less than two thousand selectors could be turned out of home to-morrow, if the Government desired to adopt extreme measures. The Opposition was responsible for the waste of time and the frustration of the business of the country. (Cheers.)

Mr. HAWTHORNE, M.L.A., proposed "Municipal Institutions," and spoke of the good they had done, and the economy exercised by them in the expenditure of the public funds. He thought their powers ought to be increased, and regretted that the Local Government Bill could not be carried into law this session. (Cheers.)

Mr. RILEY (Mayor of Sydney) responded in general terms. He said it was only a short time since he had presided over a meeting at the Sydney Town Hall representing a hundred municipalities, and he was then convinced of the great work municipalities were doing throughout the country. (Applause.) As the representative of the principal municipality in the colony, he tendered his congratulations to the people of Camperdown on the completion and opening of their beautiful and commodious Town Hall. (Cheers.)

The Mayors of Redfern, Marrickville, and Ashfield, and Alderman Gelding, of Petersham, also responded.

The remaining toasts were "The Architect and Contractor," "Our Defence Forces," "Our Visitors," "The Ladies," "The Press," and "The Chairman."

The proceedings, which throughout were of a most harmonious and successful character, were not brought to a close till past 7 o'clock.

POLICE.

Mr. Johnson, S.M., dealt with the charge sheet at the CENTRAL POLICE COURT yesterday. John Hughes, 35, labourer, and James Duff, 25, no occupation, were fined 10s., with the option of three days' imprisonment, for having fought in Sussex-street. Duff was further fined 20s. for having made use of obscene language. Edward Coulter, 21, plasterer, was fined 40s. for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and £5 for having made use of indecent language in Quarry-street. He was remanded until Wednesday in connection with a charge of having assaulted Constable Carmody. Frederick Bourke, 24, seaman, and Henry Going, 40, groom, were each ordered to pay £3, or to go to gaol for a month, for having used obscene language. Frank Scott, 26, and James Reynolds, 2[illegible], labourers, for having behaved riotously in George-street, were fined £2, with the alternative of 14 days' imprisonment. Eva George, alias White, 21, no occupation, was sentenced to three months' hard labour for being an idle and disorderly person, and a constant associate of Chinamen and aboriginals. Charles Lamont, 30, seaman, was fined £5, with the alternative of two months' imprisonment in Parramatta gaol, for having assaulted a constable whilst he was in the execution of his duty. William Miller, 9, an abandoned child, was committed to the training ship Vernon. Mr. Abbott, S.M., disposed of a number of small debts cases on the summons side.

Mr. J. M. Marsh, S.M., presided in the Charge branch of the WATER POLICE COURT. Ann Jane Cook, 58 years of age, was sentenced to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour for three months for having insufficient lawful means of support. George Derby, 41 years of age, draper, was charged that he, being the bailee of certain property of Jane Clarke—to wit, a quantity of fancy goods, valued at £1 7s. 9d.—did fraudulently convert the same to his own use. He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour for one month. Mr. G. W. F. Addison, S.M., dealt with the business in the Summons Division of the Court. Mark Albert Darwent was ordered to pay 10s. per week for 12 months, for the support of his wife. Fred Bignall, for having his premises in a filthy condition, was fined £2, with the option of 14 days' imprisonment. John Dublin, labourer, for using indecent language in the bar of the Mercantile Rowing Club Hotel, while open to the public, was fined £3, with the alternative of two months' imprisonment.

MARINE BOARD.

A meeting of the Marine Board of New South Wales took place at the offices of the Board, Loftus-street, Circular Quay, at 2 p.m. yesterday. There were present—Captain Hixson (president), Broomfield (vice-president), Jenkins, Fox, M'Lean, Robertson, Moodie, and Commander Lindeman (secretary). The Board gave its decision re the abandonment of the schooner Ada and Ethel, which was as follows:—"The Marine Board are of opinion that the Ada and Ethel had to be abandoned in consequence of suddenly springing a leak, which could not be kept under by the pumps; and that no evidence has been adduced upon which to found a charge of default against Frederick Cooper, the master." This concluded the business, and the Board rose.

NEWS BY THE MAIL.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

LONDON, Oct. 7.

Some interesting revelations are expected to be made by the man Callinan, who has turned informer against his companions charged with the murder of Head-constable Whelahan during the attack on the house of the man Sexton at Lisdoonvarna. Callinan is not a witness whom the police can be proud of, because, according to his own statement, he is a tramp, a beggar, a deserter from the army, a convicted felon, and, whenever he gets the money, a drunkard. But, then, informers as a rule are not persons of immaculate character, and Callinan, though he happens to move in a lower grade of society, is not morally a worse man than James Carey, the town councillor of Dublin, whose evidence it was which brought the Phenix Park murderers to justice.

Since the meeting between Prince Bismarck and the Italian Prime Minister, Signor Crispi, and the very generous way in which Germany has acted in regard to the shooting affray on the Franco-German frontier, there has been a much better feeling in regard to the state of European politics. The significance of the meeting between the German and the Italian Ministers is that they have entered into union with Austria to keep in check, not so much France as Russia. When Signor Crispi's journey to Friedrichsruhe became known in Paris, great excitement was manifested, because it was feared that the new political combination might be directed against the Republic. But it is now recognised in France, as elsewhere, that Russia is the power whom Austria, Italy, and Germany desire to overawe. Italy views Russia's advance in Europe with almost as much alarm as Austria, and Signor Crispi has publicly declared to the representative of a German newspaper that his Statesman never allow the Mediterranean to become a Russian lake; hence she is interested in keeping that Power out of Constantinople. Now that Russia understands that any aggressive action on her part in Europe would be confronted by the league of three such powerful States as Germany, Austria, and Italy, she will be wary of doing anything calculated to cause a breach of the public peace, and hence the new understanding between the three central European countries is regarded as a distinct guarantee against the outbreak of hostilities.

A great deal of irritation is being caused amongst the working men of London by a practice which the police of the metropolis have lately developed of interfering very largely in public meetings, and requiring to be furnished with the names of the speakers, copies of the resolutions, and so forth. As these interferences have chiefly been in the case of meetings held to denounce the Irish policy of the Government, it has been concluded that the proceedings of the police are due to the direct instructions of the Government, and, of course, Mr. Matthews, the Home Secretary, is the Minister who must have given the police their orders. A semi-official explanation has been put forward on behalf of the police to the effect that these inquiries are only made in the case of open-air demonstrations or public meetings, so that the authorities may know what number of constables will be required for the preservation of the peace. But this explanation is held to be insufficient, for the police have certainly been making inquiries in cases where there could be no question of any force being required to keep the peace. A rumour which has obtained a good deal of currency, though it is almost too ridiculous for belief, is that Mr. Matthews has given these instructions to the police in order to show the people of Ireland that the inhabitants of other portions of the kingdom have to suffer from the same tyranny of the police as themselves. If this story be true, then Mr. Matthews has added one more to the list of his many blunders.

The great social scandal case of the week has been the warning of the Marquis of Ailesbury off the turf by the Jockey Club. According to the most authentic accounts, this young man seems to have been more sinned against than sinning, for it is asserted that he was made use of by a gang of bookmakers who had laid a trap for Mr. Benyon, who rejoices in the appellation of the "Jubilee Juggins," on account of the striking manner in which he illustrates the adage that certain individuals and their money are soon parted. But, as is usual with "society" when one of its members is found out, there has been a unanimous chorus of condemnation against him from aristocratic quarters. The Times startled the world by declaring that it was "scandalous that a man like the Marquis of Ailesbury should have, by right of birth alone, the power of voting for or against every single bill that any Government or any Opposition may propose, and that his vote should have the same value as that of Lord Salisbury or Lord Granville." The Morning Post, the recognised organ of the upper ten, went even further, and proposed that young peers should not be permitted to sit in the House of Lords by mere virtue of coming of age, but should be made to submit to some examination as to their moral and intellectual capacities for legislation before being allowed to take their seats in the chamber of hereditary legislators. Such a suggestion as this is manifestly absurd, for, in the first place, bad men are often clever—it would scarcely be possible to devise an intellectual examination which the Duke of Marlborough, for instance, could not pass; and secondly, a man's moral defects do not usually manifest themselves in any great degree until he has been exposed to the temptations of manhood—or, in other words, until he has passed the age of 21.

However, it is unquestionable that Lord Ailesbury, though he is no worse than many aristocratic individuals who are not found out, has given a great impetus to the demand for a reform of the House of Lords. It is understood that Lord Rosebery will bring forward next session the motion which he has previously made to that end, and that Lord Salisbury, on behalf of the Conservative Government, will afford him facilities for so doing. The impression even prevails that the Conservative Government will take the question of the reform of the House of Lords into their own hands, and carry it out on their own lines.

The annual conference of the Baptist Union is being held this week at Sheffield. Much interest attaches to this meeting because of a rumour that, should the Union fail to take stringent steps with regard to certain ministers who are in the habit of preaching heterodox doctrines, Mr. C. H. Spurgeon will withdraw from the Baptist denomination. The rev. gentleman, as is well known, has no tolerance for what he regards as heretical opinions. The same report states that, should he leave the Baptists, Mr. Spurgeon will join the Presbyterians, towards whom he has always had a strong leaning. It is, however, considered doubtful whether many of his vast congregation at the Tabernacle will follow him in this departure.

Undeterred by the unfavourable reception accorded to his "Oceana," Mr. J. A. Froude intends to bring out a companion work to that interesting production, dealing with India.

The memoirs of the late Mr. Grenville Murray are announced to be published shortly, in two volumes, by his widow, a French lady. When they appear they will certainly be the most piquant and interesting reading that has been laid before the public for a long time. During the later years of his life this formidable litterateur lived in Paris, and was an occasional contributor to the columns of the Daily News. He was associated with both Mr. Edmund Yates and Mr. H. Labouchere in the early stages of the World and Truth, and many of the most interesting of the "Queer Stories," which appeared in the first numbers of the latter periodical were from his pen.

The Earl of Arundel and Surrey, the only child of the Duke of Norfolk, the head of the Roman Catholic aristocracy of Great Britain, is dangerously ill at Buxton. The young earl has been afflicted from his birth, for he was born blind, he can neither walk nor talk well, and has always been in delicate health. About a year ago his mother, the late Duchess of Norfolk, founded a convent at Arundel, the nuns of which offer up continual intercession for him. Some time since, also, the Duke undertook a pilgrimage to a well-known Roman Catholic shrine for the purpose of praying that his little boy might receive the blessing of sight.

Sir Saul Samuel is urging forward the completion of Mr. Boehm's statue of the Queen for early shipment so that it may reach Sydney in time to be unveiled at the Centennial celebrations. The Jubilee memorial statue of the Queen, presented to her Majesty by the tenantry of her Highland estates and the servants of Balmoral, which was unveiled yesterday by the Prince of Wales, is a replica of the Sydney sculpture, Mr. Boehm having obtained permission from your Government for this copy to be made.

Sir Saul Samuel continues to make purchases of Captain Cook's relics. Amongst the articles he has recently bought is the famous navigator's universal sundial, a most complicated instrument. It is well authenticated, and, moreover, bears the Captain's initials. Further relics of Captain Cook have turned up in two quarters. A gentleman writing from Yorkshire claims to possess a collection of these interesting objects, and Lord Thurlow also states that he has some in his possession. Both these gentlemen declare that they have the identical feather cloak and helmet which were given to Captain Cook by King Kalamiopun a few days before the great explorer was killed. Sir Saul Samuel, however, has discovered that Captain Cook brought five feather cloaks and helmets, all similar in appearance, from Hawaii, and he will try to get all five. He has already, as was mentioned some weeks ago, purchased one out of the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, and this he declares is the one actually placed upon the great navigator's shoulders by the king.

The Wesleyan Missionary Society has lately been thrown into something of a flutter by the announcement of the discovery of gold on some of its property in South Central Africa. A gentleman was sent out at once to inquire into the reality of the discovery, and he has reported that there undoubtedly is gold, though not in such large quantities as had been anticipated.

It is considered probable that there will be a slight revival of the gold-mining speculation in London during the coming winter. Several important ventures are spoken of as likely to be placed on the market in the course of the next few weeks.

Although Sir John Pope Hennessy is returning to Mauritius, he will not stay long in that colony, an announcement which will doubtless be received with much satisfaction by the official element there. He intends to retire from the diplomatic service next year, and take up his residence in Ireland.

Sir John Bates Thurston, who is now in England, does not look forward very hopefully to his approaching journey to the United States to attend the conference at Washington upon Samoa. He considers that the recent action of Germany in those islands renders the holding of such a conference practically useless. The comments of the American newspapers upon the deposition and deportation of King Malietoa, though containing many expressions of sympathy for that unfortunate monarch, make it clear that the United States do not care what Power exercises predominance in Samoa, so long as American interests are respected. The British Government apparently take up a similar position, so that there will be nothing to interfere with Germany having matters all her own way.

The National Union Club have announced that they will admit Fellows of the Royal Colonial Institute to the privileges of their institution at half the usual member's fee of five guineas. They state that they take this step for the purpose of enabling colonists in London to enjoy the advantages of club life. The number of clubs springing up in London is quite noteworthy. It is said that the club accommodation of the metropolis is increasing at the rate of 2000 or 3000 a year; and yet the demand exceeds the supply. A new club is being built in St. James's-street, which will be called the Meistersinger's Club, and will be one of the most magnificent in London. The Isthmian Club, built on one of the finest sites in the West End, and the Junior Travellers' Club, will also soon be opened.

Several newspapers have stated that Professor Goldwin Smith intends to leave Canada, and seek to enter Parliamentary life in England. This story, however, is believed to be unfounded. The eminent professor and ardent opponent of Home Rule is in his sixty-fifth year, and is not likely, therefore, to enter upon a new career.

Official statistics show that the emigration from Ireland during the first nine months of the present year greatly exceeds that of the corresponding period in 1886, the figures being 69,859 in 1887, as against 52,697 in 1886.

The fourth series of wool sales, which closed on the 5th instant, showed a decline of from ½d. to 2d. per lb. from the closing rates of last series upon all qualities save greasy superior combing merino, in which a slight advance is recorded. The daily average of sales was nearly 12,000 bales less than that of the corresponding series of last year.

THE NEW GRAVING DOCK AT COCKATOO.

A considerable amount of progress has, during the last 12 months more particularly, been made with the construction of the new graving dock at Biloela. The completion of this work will give to Sydney a pre-eminence in matters of this kind, which the port is likely to retain for a considerable time to come. The dock is one of the largest dry docks in the world, and it is said that it is capacious enough to admit any vessel afloat except the Great Eastern, the length of which somewhat exceeds the internal measurement of the dock. The new dock is being constructed on the south side of Cockatoo, and in the neighbourhood of the Fitzroy dock. The new channel measures from the cope at the head of the dock to the edge of the outer invert 638ft.; the width from wall to wall of the inner invert is 84ft.; the total depth of the dock at the entrance is 40ft. 6in., and at the head below cope level, 39ft. At high water there will be 32ft. of water on the sill. The channel for the dock had to be excavated out of the solid rock, but before that work was entered upon the surface, which was of a very rugged nature, had to be dealt with. The preparatory work was commenced about five years ago, and was carried out by Messrs. Keogh and Johnston. The contract now being executed was undertaken by Mr. Louis Samuel, and was entered into in February, 1884. Mr. Samuel had to excavate the channel, build the altars, walls, and piers of the docks, erect the inverts, and construct the engine-house, &c. He has practically completed the construction of the dock proper, and has almost finished the erection of the double inverts which are to form part of the entrance to the dock. All the masonry has a massive and substantial appearance. The floor of the dock is paved with bluestone, and the lower series of altars is formed of concrete, whilst the upper series is built of dressed sandstone. The broad altar, which is 23ft. 6in. below the cope, is composed of large blocks of Victorian granite, and the same kind of stone has also been used in the cope and in the steps which (forming part of six piers) lead down to the altars on each side. Victorian granite is also being used for the quoins of the inverts. Eight timber slides, each 5ft. in width, have been fitted in the walls of the dock, and the piers have been protected with timber fenders. To perform their contract Messrs. Keogh and Johnston excavated more than 12,000 cubic yards of sandstone. Mr. Samuel has caused to be excavated about 93,000 cubic yards of rock, and to be erected 3500 cubic yards of sandstone masonry. In the broad altar, cope, and steps, 25,935 cubic feet of granite have been used, and in the inverts 3200 cubic feet of the same kind of stone. At present the sea water is kept out of the dock by a coffer-dam erected at the western end. The entrance proper will consist of a double invert with an intervening space 15ft. in width, which is to be occupied by a caisson now being manufactured in England. An immense chamber is to be constructed at the north-western corner of the dock, into which the caisson will be drawn when a vessel is about to enter or leave the dock. The outer invert is 15ft., and the inner invert 20ft., across. The caisson chamber, which will have to be excavated in the solid rock, has not yet been commenced, it being necessary to await the completion of a sea wall in the neighbourhood of it. Close to the caisson chamber the pumping machinery will be erected. It will be housed in a building which will occupy a space of 40ft. by 40ft. The whole of the foundations for this structure as well as for the machinery which is to occupy it—including two pump-wells having a maximum diameter of 15ft. and a minimum of 9ft.—have already been put in. The pumping machinery will be powerful enough to empty the new graving dock in about 3½ hours, and by the employment of a valve and tunnel communicating with the Fitzroy Dock, it will, when necessary, also be utilised to empty the old dock. Seemingly, a few months ought to suffice for the completion of the whole of the adjuncts to the new dock; but two great obstacles stand in the way. One of these is the erection of the sea wall, in the absence of which it would be extremely foolish to attempt to excavate the caisson chamber, and the other is the caisson, which may not arrive from England for a considerable time. Even after the construction of the chamber and the fitting of the caisson in its place, some time will be required to blow away the dam which at present protects the works from being inundated. It is believed that the total cost of the dock, &c., will be somewhat less than £250,000. The first portion of the work was carried out under the superintendence of Mr. J. B. Mackenzie. Since the retirement of that gentleman the post of resident engineer has been filled by Mr. E. W. Young.

THE WEATHER.

The weather was fine and pleasant in the metropolitan district yesterday, and in marked contrast to the blustering weather of the previous day. Towards evening clouds began to work up from the southward, and last night the sky wore a threatening appearance, but there was no more rain up to midnight. Generally fine weather prevailed west of the range, with light winds and calms, at 9 a.m.; but it was cloudy and gloomy in the eastern parts of the colony, with fresh to strong E. to S.E. winds; and along the coast it was showery. The sea had moderated considerably, and by the afternoon a smooth sea was reported from most of the stations along the coast.

OUR MELBOURNE LETTER.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 12.

The wrath of factions, as the Government has discovered, is worse than the anger of offended gods. In the simplicity of his diplomacy Mr. Gillies imagined that he could give the palm to both sides, that he could sacrifice with equal acceptance to the Saturn of publican worship and to the Jupiter of the temperance party. He is taken aback to find that neither of the powers whom he is anxious to piacate will have anything to do with his humble offering of a bill. Never was a more transparent, and at the same time a more honest, scheme devised for catching the votes of two parties. The Amending Licensing Bill was plainly the result of a struggle in the Cabinet, and exhibited in every clause the reflex of its origin. The Ministers had made concessions to each other, and they apparently argued that a House divided in a like proportion in opinion would do the same. They only forgot that as the ordinary member does not draw a Ministerial salary, he has not the same powerful inducement for accepting pleasant compromises. There were concessions to the publicans and concessions to the temperance party, and it was expected that these two bitter foes would proclaim a truce, pass the measure, and take each the share allotted to him by the treaty. To the surprise of the Government they only agreed in rejecting the measure. The teetotalers exclaimed that it did not give them half enough, the others that it yielded too much to the alliance, and on the first night of the debate it was plain that the bill would be obstructed to the utmost. It was partly resisted by the one side, partly denounced by the other, and the Government speedily saw that the chance of carrying it into law at this late period of the session was exceedingly small. Mr. Gillies and Mr. Deakin, however, persevered for a short time, and passed a few clauses through committee, but finding that the opposition increased into uproar, and that their own supporters were being widely divided, they resolved to abandon every disputable section. They, therefore, accommodatingly eviscerated the measure, took out of it everything like an idea, removed all the real amendments on the previous Act, destroyed everything that would have given it some individuality, and left the mere framework of a law. A few clauses remain, which are intended to improve the machinery of the law, otherwise our licensing system is unchanged.

The heat evoked required an all-night sitting, during which the public were informed what the semi-sacred members of the Assembly think of each other. The lie direct was frequently given. Accounts of private conversations were dragged forth and bluntly contradicted. Mr. Gaunson taunted one member with having diddled a barmaid out of "threepence," and he took occasion, as mud-thrower at humanity in general, to make an assault on his bête noire, Sir Graham Berry, whom he pronounced to be "an old counterfeit, a white-haired political rogue, a bandy-legged schemer." Then Mr. Shiels brought up once more the ghost of the O'Loghlen Government, which invariably appears in the middle of a stormy scene. He accused Mr. Gillies of having intrigued against that unfortunate Government, whose members can never forget that they were thrown into office and kept there for no merits of their own, while he pretended to support it. Mr. Gillies made a heated reply, and Mr. Deakin, who was then in opposition, declared that Mr. Shiels himself was the traitor. Tired out by a surfeit of personal abuse, the House then sank into dulness ineffable. The subject of discussion was a resolution in regard to local option; but the teetotalers happened to have a majority of the members who were present, and their opponents stonewalled, waiting for support. It was 10 in the morning before the absent brigade arrived, and then, in a fairly full House, local option, as the temperance party proposed it, was rejected by a majority of five. There was a renewal of the strife on Thursday evening, when the Government proposed to rescind three clauses favourable to the teetotalers, which had been carried in committee. Mr. Munro and his temperance friends held out, but the vast majority of the House determined that if concessions were refused to one side they should also be denied to the other. The Government has, therefore, extricated itself from the pitfall by virtually abandoning the whole measure.

It might have been better if the Ministers had insisted upon their bill, and firmly forced it through Parliament. They have gained nothing by putting the bill forward and drawing it back. It is true that they divided the Opposition, but they divided their own supporters as well, and betrayed a difference of opinion among themselves. A Cabinet which lives by constant compromise is perhaps the worst fitted to settle such a question. The present Ministry, however, has the further disadvantage of want of resolution in managing the Assembly. The occupants of the Treasury benches bow meekly to the storm, only making an occasional humble appeal to the chairman to maintain order. They seem to have no idea that it is the duty of a Government to govern, to keep order, to find legislative work, to impress its ideas upon the laws, and to carry its principles through Parliament into the Statute Book. To do the departmental work, and to let Parliament welter in its own words, seems to be their one mode of life; but as they will be still more divided on the revision of the tariff, and, therefore, still more powerless, it is more than probable that their union is drawing to its inevitable end.

To the numerous disadvantages of travelling on the Victorian railways, the Government now proposes to add that, in the event of a passenger being killed, the compensation paid to his wife and family shall be limited to £1000. The main argument is that as all classes pay the same fare, there should also be one uniform rate of compensation. With this is joined the extraordinary statement that the railways belong to the public, that the man who is killed or injured is partly responsible for the management under which the accident takes place, and that the majority of the people, being the shareholders, are entitled to limit the amount of damages, if they please. Of course, on the same principle, the State should never pay damages at all. If every man is responsible for the management of the departments because he has a vote for the Legislative Assembly, then it is absurd to give compensation in any case. But it needs desperate twists of thought to get round the unanswerable fact that, when private companies are compelled to pay the full damages assessed by a jury, the State cannot fairly be placed in a different position.

If the Government cannot legislate, it can, at least, show its activity in framing bills. In spite of the fact that the session is rapidly coming to an end, and that half of the proposals now on the notice-paper will be sacrificed, it has introduced and circulated a measure for the Amendment of the Public Service Act. The amendments are strictly limited to minor technical improvements in the working of the Act, and to the grievances which have been brought forward by the Civil servants. The latter, however, have not received every concession they demanded, and are reported to be still dissatisfied, and, if they choose to lay their cases before members of Parliament, they can easily block the progress of the bill. To do so, however, would hardly be in their own interests, as they are now offered some improvement in their position, which may be long delayed if they insist upon too much.

The excitement of the Cup has been followed by the milder dissipation of flower shows, cricket matches, and reviews, all of which are attended with equal impartiality by the Governor. In this connection it may be said that there has been no hint of placing an additional sum upon the Estimates for his Excellency. He has large allowances, and if more were required on account of an exceptional invasion of visitors during the centennial year, the extra amount would naturally be proposed next session. In the meantime the Prince of Wales's birthday has been celebrated in the usual fashion, and with all the more heartiness that the occasion brought the one true, perfect, spring day we have had this season. The review was highly successful, though some slight mistakes—such as firing at the Governor's party, under the impression that they were enemies—were made. A thousand men marched and counter-marched, skirmished and fired, and went home wearied and sunburnt, and conscious that they were learning more of the art of war. The Mayor's banquet in the Town Hall was attended by 800 guests. No Ministerial deliverance, of course, could be expected; but Mr. Gillies said he would ask the House to lift itself above party strife and discuss the scheme of defence recommended by the Imperial Conference. The Earl of Carnarvon, who spoke as a late Secretary of State, was complimentary, and nothing more, and most of the audience would have been better pleased with a weightier deliverance. There was that, however, about his style of speech and his choice of words, which was peculiarly refreshing to one wearied with Parliamentary praters.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The weights for the November meeting of the Canterbury Race Club saw the light yesterday, and, as usual, Mr. Scarr has distributed them evenly. Fraud heads the list in the Flying Handicap with 8st. 9lb., succeeded by Glen Elgin, First Flaneur, and Tilburn at intervals of a couple of pounds each; while Here's Luck and Leumeah are the final pair of the 8st. division; and those who appear to have been treated with any leniency are Southerly Buster, First Flaneur, Tuscarora, and Athlete. In the Park Stakes Faunus has been awarded the complimentary impost of 8st. 5lb., and Nonsense comes next with a concession of a couple of pounds, followed by The Warder, at even weight, while those who have no cause for complaint seem to be Clarion, Oakwood, Winnie, and Hester. Melanion has been honoured with the pride of place in the Canterbury Park Handicap, with a steadier of 9st., Figtree a couple of pounds less, and the constant Leichhardt has been awarded 8st. 10lb.; but Soldier's Wind, Whisper Low, and Belvoirina appear to have slightly the best of it at their respective weights. Figtree should have all his work cut out to carry 12st. in the Stewards' Mile, as he concedes a stone to his successor, Upper Cut, and any advantage that may be apparent has been granted to Tooraie, Resolve, Oakwood, and Hester. The handicaps are published elsewhere in this issue.

The Goldsborough—Bloomer mare has been named Springblossom.

Owners and trainers of race-horses are again reminded that entries for the race meeting to be held under the auspices of the Hawkesbury Race Club on December 3rd, close this afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the secretary, Mr. C. S. Guest, Richmond; or the secretary of the A. J. C., King-street, Sydney. The principal handicaps of the Narrabri Jockey Club will also need attention, and nominations will be received by the secretary, Mr. E. Guest, up to 10 p.m.

The spring meeting of the Murrumbidgee Turf Club, which commences at Wagga Wagga to-morrow, promises to bring about capital sport, and, though the entries are not large in several of the events, the quality of the competitors in most of the races is unquestionably good. Metropolitan sportsmen who intend to visit the great sporting centre of Riverina can do so by means of a special train, chartered by Mr. John Thompson, and which leaves Redfern at 9.30 a.m. to-day, returning from Wagga Wagga on Friday night, and arriving in Sydney on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. This arrangement will enable those who avail themselves of the special to visit the Canterbury Park races on Saturday. Racing will open with the Derby, in which only three—the Darebin-Thyra colt, Puzzle, and Rose of Australia—remain, and they will likely finish in the order named. Should Ellerslie start, he should about win the Selling Hurdle Race, and in his absence, the prospects of Boatman appear about the best. Of the half-score still left in the Sires' Produce Stakes, Wyvis, Contrition, and Cazotte should have most to say at the finish; and as Mr. Oxenham has no less than four to do battle for him in the Grand Stand Handicap, he may be said to hold a mortgage over the stakes. In the Selling Race, Freedom, Indifference, and Nap should provide the winners; while New Fashion, Faugh-a-ballagh, and Odd Stockings look as well as anything in the Shorts.

The latest scratchings are as under:—Tattersall's Club—Lady Carrington's Prize: Grey Esperance. Canterbury Park Race Club: All engagements: Glen Elgin. Murrumbidgee Turf Club — All engagements: Willeroo and Oakwood.

The stakes won at the Rosehill Spring meeting were paid over yesterday. The following are the winners and the amounts of the stakes:—Mr. W. Miller, £225; Mr. J. Uno, £126; Mr. H. Bennett, £125; Mr. W. Kelso, £100; Mr. M. Kelly, £100; Mr. J. Phillips, £75; Mr. D. Cameron, £75; Mr. J. Dykes, £60; Mr. H. Hilder, £50; Mr. G. B. Rowley, £50; Mr. E. Keys, £25; Mr. T. Ivory, £20: total, £1031.

The Victorian Racing Calendar for the current month has reached us. The publication, as usual, is replete with turf information from the sister colony.

The Eugowra Jockey Club have arranged for a day's racing on Boxing Day, and a five-event programme has been framed for the occasion.

The Vegetable Creek Jockey Club have announced the programme for their Christmas Race meeting on December 26 and 27, to be held on the new racecourse, Steel's Gully. The leading items are the Jockey Club Handicap of 30 sovs and Flying Handicap of 20 sovs.

The Lower Hunter Turf Club intend to hold their final meeting on the old course at Raymond Terrace on December 1s, and a nicely-arranged programme has been issued for the occasion. The club are making satisfactory progress with the preparation of the new course recently purchased by them, and which promises to be one of the best racing tracks in the Northern district.

The members of the Lithgow Jockey Club are not a happy family. On the evening of the 9th instant a meeting was held, when Mr. Caulfield, one of the members, submitted a resolution to the effect that the election of officers and committee-men that took place at an informal meeting of some of the members of the Lithgow Jockey Club on the night of Wednesday, October 26th, be declared null and void, and that the secretary be asked to convene another meeting, to take place on Monday night, November 14th, for the purpose of electing in a proper way the club's officers and committee-men for the year 1887-8, such meeting to be convened by an advertisement in one or both of the Lithgow papers, or by a circular to be forwarded to each member. The mover held that under the A. J. C. rules the office-bearers must be elected at a general meeting of which the members shall have been duly notified by circular or advertisement—a course which was not carried out when the appointment of the officers for the current year was made. A lively discussion on the motion ensued, in which language the reverse of complimentary or polite was used with strict impartiality on both sides, and eventually the resolution was lost. Then a motion "That Mr. Caulfield be not readmitted as a member," was proposed and carried, and the meeting separated amid great disorder. It is stated that the matter will not be allowed to rest at its present stage.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that the following horses left Flemington for Wagga yesterday morning:—Phaon, Faugh-a-Ballagh, Pasha, Spade Guinea, Rocket, Teddy Yuille, Morilla, Wyvis, Ellerlie, New Fashion.

THE CENTENNIAL REGATTA.

A meeting of the committee appointed to carry out the Centennial Regatta was held at Aaron's Exchange Hotel yesterday evening. The chair was occupied by Mr. P. J. Clarke, and the following members of the committee were present:—Major Gascoigne, Messrs. Dreweth, Creswell, M'Leod, Moodie, Gaden, M'Dermott, Cubitt, Bros, Snow, Creagh, Dietrich, Hale, Pedley, Blackman, Green, Cornwell, Josephson, A. G. Milson, Brodie, and Hellings; and Mr. C. C. Medcalfe, secretary. The minutes of the preceding meeting having been read and confirmed, the correspondence was dealt with. A letter was read from Captain Wallington, intimating that his Excellency the Governor would have much pleasure in according his patronage to the regatta. Letters were also read from the following gentlemen accepting the position of vice-presidents to the regatta, Mr. J. B. Watt, Hon. C. J. Roberts, Mr. J. R. Fairfax, Mr. Wm. Laidley, Mr. P. J. Clarke, Mr. W. J. Trickett, Mr. J. P. Garvan, the Hon. Geo. Thornton, and Dr. F. Milford. Mr. I. J. Josephson, who was present, also intimated his intention of accepting the office of vice-president. The resignation of Mr. P. O. Williams as a member of the committee was accepted. On the motion of the Chairman, it was decided that the committee should meet every Monday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Exchange Hotel, and several other minor regulations for the management of the proceedings were carried. Mr. P. J. Clarke was unanimously elected as chairman of the committee on the motion of the secretary, Mr. Medcalfe. Mr. Creagh suggested that before proceeding further with the business it would be well to ascertain from the Government exactly what their intentions were with regard to money, &c. Mr. Medcalfe said that £800 had been fixed by the Government as the sum for the regatta, and it only remained for the meeting to appoint delegates. Mr. Josephson thought that the programme should be drawn out as quickly as possible. On the suggestion of the chairman, it was decided to proceed with the drafting of the programme at once, which could be finally adopted at a subsequent meeting of the committee. After some discussion, the following races were agreed upon as part of the programme:—Rowing races: Maiden fours, junior fours, senior fours, open boats to 24ft., all manual labour fours, all-comers fours, Laidley sculls, all-comers sculls, all-comers handicap skiffs, all manual labour amateurs in skiffs, handicap; man-of-war's boats, ship's boats, Vernon boats, and youth's under 18. Sailing Races: Open boats, 20 to 24 ft., handicapped; half-deckers, 20 to 22 ft., handicapped; all boats 20ft. and upwards, handicapped, limited crews; 16ft. dingeys; half-decked boats over 22ft., handicapped; 14ft. dingeys; canvas dingeys, not exceeding 14ft. boats, no boat to rank under 10ft., amateur crews; canvas dingeys, 10ft. and under, to be manned and sailed by youths under 16. Champion yacht race for all yachts, time for tonnage. Yachts under 20 rating, handicapped; no two prizes to go to boats of the same class; and professional fishermen's boats handicapped. On the motion of Mr. A. Green the following gentlemen were appointed a deputation to wait on the Premier:—Messrs. P. J. Clarke, A. G. Milson, I. J. Josephson, J. R. Fairfax, C. C. Medcalf, E. M. Dietrich, P. W. Creagh, E. W. Knox, and Major Gascoigne. The object of the deputation is to confer with the Premier with regard to the arrangements for the regatta. Some other formal business was transacted and the proceedings terminated.

CRICKET.

The following players have been selected to practise for the match against Vernon's team, to commence on the Association Cricket Ground on Friday, the 25th instant:—Allen, A. Bannerman, Evans, Moses, Ferris, Turner, Garrett, C. Richardson, M'Donnell, Burton, Davis, Jones, Hiddilstone, Cottam, A. Gregory, and Ogilvy.

The monthly meeting of the committee of the New South Wales Cricket Association was held on Monday night, at Aarons' Exchange Hotel. There were present—Mr. A. Cameron (chairman), Messrs. A. Docker, A. Gregory, Teece, Fuller, Riddell, Gibson, Faithfull, Clayton, Harris, Clayton, Fairfax, Halligan, Beal, Sheridan, M'Donald, P. B Walker, J. Shepherd, V. Cohen, D. Gregory, and Goddard. A letter was received from Mr. E. D. Heather, stating that the Victorian Cricketers' Association had decided to play two intercolonial matches as before, and requesting the N. S. W. Cricket Association to appoint delegates to discuss matters in connection with intercolonial cricket to be held when the N. S. W. team went to Melbourne; also asking when the intercolonial match would be played in Sydney. On the motion of Mr. Gibson, it was decided to play the match on January 26 and the following days. Mr. Cohen moved,—"That the V.C.A. be requested to give the proposed constitution of the conference suggested and the programme of subjects to be discussed thereat, on receipt of such information the matter to be considered by the association." Mr. Beal seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously. The Lands Office Club applied for admittance, forwarding a list of members and the usual fee. The application was deferred pending the settlement of a complaint made by Mr. Fairfax, secretary of the Belvidere Club, against the Lands Office Club to the effect that the latter had not kept faith with the Belvideres in the matter of a match. Ultimately Mr. Fairfax decided to let the matter stand over until the following day, with a view to an amicable settlement. The necessary certificate was received from the Parramatta Club, showing that there were 64 paid-up members: also stating that they did not intend to appoint a delegate. The hon. secretary, in reply to Mr. Gibson, stated that Mr. Evans had not been written to asking him to practise for the last match. The names had been advertised, but none of the players had been written to. The hon. secretary, in reply to Mr. Beal, stated that he had not communicated to Mr. Lillywhite the fact that a resolution had been passed by the committee of the association to the effect that 2½ per cent. be charged instead of 5 per cent. on the gross proceeds of all matches played by the English teams in the colony. Mr. V. Cohen pointed out that there were three resolutions now standing on the books—one that 5 per cent. be charged, another that 2½ per cent. be charged, and a third that such charge be made as the committee considered fit. As treasurer, he really did not know what amount he should apply for to Mr. Lillywhite. Mr. Gibson moved and Mr. Teece seconded that the hon. treasurer be requested to apply to Mr. Lillywhite for 2½ per cent. on the gross proceeds of the late match. The chairman, after considerable discussion, decided that the motion was in order, and it was carried by 11 votes to 4. A letter was read from the West Australian Cricket Association stating that the idea of their team visiting the eastern colonies had been abandoned, owing to the proposal not receiving sufficient support. The letter was received. It was decided to pay Mr. A. Bannerman £7 10s. as a professional fee for his services in the late match with Shaw's team. Mr. Docker moved "That with the exception of a formal acknowledgement, the hon secretary be instructed not to write an official answer or letter in reference to any communication without the sanction or direction of the committee until the subject matter has been considered and dealt with at a regularly called meeting." The consideration of the motion was postponed until next meeting. The meeting then adjourned.

The following matches were played last Saturday:—

Two short teams of the Lands Office and Belvidere clubs met on the Domain. Each side freely lent assistance when their opponents were in the field. The Belvideres won the toss and elected to bat, as they had only seven men, in the hope that the other picked players would roll up. They were dismissed for 12 runs, five of which were byes. The successful bowler was Bramley, whose average of six wickets for two runs speaks for itself. When the Lands Office representatives went in the wicket had got bumpy, and three wickets went before the winning hit was made, the Lands Office winning the match by five wickets and 14 runs.

The match for the Kinsela Cup, between the Invincibles and Belmores, was resumed and brought to a conclusion, the result being an easy win for the Invincibles by 87 runs.

M'Murtrie, Kellermann, and Co. played G. Peacock and Co. on the ground of the latter, the result being a draw, through the state of the weather. At the call of time the scores stood as follows:—Peacock and Co., 31 for four wickets; M'Murtrie, Kellermann, and Co., 99.

BATHURST LAND BOARD.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BATHURST, MONDAY.

The Land Board commenced a three days' meeting this morning, Mr. C. E. Finch being chairman. Mr. W. H. Paul, the newly appointed member, took his seat for the first time. The following business was transacted:—Donald Larnach was required to satisfy the board that the requirements of the law as regards improvements had been complied with on a series of conditional purchases, the original of which was taken up in 1874. The expenditure necessary under the Act was £326, but the inspector's appraisement amounted to £96 only. Larnach claimed that the present value was £265, contending that the department should have caused an inspection of the improvements at the expiration of the term wherein he had to complete, and not when the buildings, &c. had fallen into disrepair. He asserted that the buildings cost £250 originally. They were now valued by the inspector at £55 only. The case was postponed to the board's next meeting to permit the selector to produce witnesses to corroborate his statements. Forfeiture was recommended in the case of Thomas Haywood the younger, who, according to the evidence of the inspector, had not complied with the residence conditions upon a conditional purchase of 40 acres in the parish of Mount Lawson, taken up in March, 1886. The selector was absent. Forfeiture was also recommended in the case of the conditional purchase of James Hunt, 40 acres, in the parish of Mount Lawson, for a similar reason. Also that of Edwin Barrett, 48 acres, parish of Kindale. Forfeiture was incurred by John Jones, who, according to the inspector, made no attempt to reside on a conditional purchase of 40 acres, parish of Gilmandyke, and who did not attend, although summoned. The board recommended that the incurred penalty be carried out. The board referred the evidence of the inspector and the claimant to the Minister for decision under sub-section 7 of section 14, in an inquiry as to whether Thomas Stattery (now deceased) had from three months after confirmation of his purchase of 61½ acres, parish of Blenheim, up to the time of his death (17th January last) carried out the residence conditions thereon. The testimony of the widow went to show that the selector had been in delicate health for some years, which prevented him taking up his residence as required by the Act, until the house, which he was unable to finish, was complete, and want of means deprived him of engaging labour to assist him. James White, who holds a conditional purchase of 80 acres in the parish of Mount Lawson requiring his residence for five years, admitted that he lived as much on an adjoining portion, held under a conditional purchase by his wife, as he did on his own land. As the selector had not gone into occupation of his purchased but of his leased land, and did not inform the land board of his intention, the board recommended the forfeiture of the selection.

FREE PASSES TO EX-MEMBERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It would appear that Mr. Haynes was labouring against his own acknowledged principles in moving his resolution to rescind an Act of Parliament granting all members of Parliament a free railway pass for life after those members had performed something worthy of the honour. It is not so long ago that we gave to one of our most deserving representatives a handsome reward for his many years of service, besides giving him, and many others, who had never been representative people, a free railway pass for life, together with the honour of holding a high position in the colony by being appointed members of the Legislative Council. Admitting that merit should be rewarded, then, by all that is just, give to those members who have devoted so much of their time to the public affairs of the colony some recompense for their labours and neglect of private business. There are but few who would begrudge Sir Henry Parkes a substantial recompense being paid to him by the State for his past services; and when, in this instance, Mr. Haynes and the colony at large see where close application to political matters impoverishes the individual making the sacrifice, and are prepared in every direction to subscribe towards his relief, surely this should point out to Mr. Haynes that some recognition is due to those who have devoted a proportionate part of that time to the country. This he claims, inasmuch as he is a prominent supporter and advocate for more privileges for members, and would have all his letters carried free throughout the colony at the expense of the Government. I am astonished that he should have stopped at the letter-carrying, which he says he is entitled to. Why not his telegrams? Mr. Haynes is also a strong advocate for the payment of members; thus, under the Payment of Members Bill a man on being elected secures for himself £700 per annum or £2100 before he can be repudiated by his constituents; and any new member may, after a few months' trial as a representative, ignominiously fail in his duties, thus securing for himself sufficient to purchase several life railway passes for which he had proved himself worthless at the cost of the State. On the other hand, many of those nine ex-members who have served the country for a considerable number of years, and who would be rewarded for their labours in a small way by being granted free life passes on our railways, have not been repudiated by their constituents, but have retired full of honour and the confidence of the people; many have been requested over and over again to again become their representative, with all their electioneering expenses guaranteed to be paid for them should they allow themselves to be brought forward. Does Mr. Haynes consider that all future Parliaments are to be better and harder worked than anything we have already had, and will deserve more credit and payment for what they do? or are we to consider that some spirit is compelling him to act directly in opposition in this one respect to the policy which he otherwise would advocate.

I am, &c., D. KIRKWOOD.

ANOTHER TRAM TROUBLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I arrived at Redfern terminus from the suburbs this morning at 10.19, and with a number of other passengers took my seat in the tram, and sat quietly till the half-hour, expecting it to start every moment. As it did not leave, I and others made anxious inquiry as to when the tram would leave. The guard said it would not start till 10.39, just 20 minutes after the arrival of the train. On this becoming known, most of the passengers quitted the cars in disgust, either to walk through the rain or take an omnibus. Now, Sir, it appears to me monstrous that the public should be put to the inconvenience of having to wait 20 minutes in a tramcar after the arrival of a train. A number of residents living up the line visit the eastern suburbs on Sunday, and arrive in Sydney by the 10.20 train. To-day those either had to walk to Liverpool-street through the rain, or miss their tram. I can safely state numbers travel regularly by the above train who either walk or go by the 'bus rather than be detained so long at the station, and the Government, I am certain, would consult both the interest of the revenue and the convenience of their patrons by bringing about a change in the direction I have indicated.

I am, &c.,

COLONIAL GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

New S. Wales Funded	— — —	Debentures due 1902	— — —

The following were the Melbourne quotations posted at the Exchange to-day:—Perkins's Brewery, buyer 39s., seller, 41s.; Perpetual Trustee, buyer 13s. 4½d., seller, 13s. 6d., sales 13s. 4½d.; Silverton Tram, buyer 51s., seller 52s., sales 51s.

Closing quotations for Bank stocks in London on October 6 were as follow:—Bank of Australasia, 95, 97; Bank of New South Wales, 69, 71; Bank of New Zealand, 20, 21; Commercial of Australia, 9, 10; English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered, 32½, 33½; London Chartered of Australia, 24½, 25½; National of Australasia, 9½, 10; Queensland National, Limited, 12, 12½; Union of Australia, 63, 65.

The half-yearly report of the Bank of Australasia to 11th April, presented to the shareholders on the 6th October, shows that the net profit for the half-year amounted to £108,148. The addition of £12,753, brought forward from the previous half-year, gave a disposable balance of £120,902, of which the dividend and bonus absorbed £108,000, leaving £12,902 to be carried forward to the next half-year. The reduction in the dividend, which amounted to 13½ per cent. per annum, as against 15 per cent. in the previous half-year, was due, the chairman stated, to an adverse change in the terms of business. The deposits were for fixed periods, whereas the advance rates frequently varied, and any sudden decline in the latter therefore deranged, for a while, the relations on which the profits of the bank depended. The business of the bank had been fully maintained, and no exceptional provision had to be made for bad and doubtful debts. Mr. G. D. Whatman was elected a director.

In the Import markets to-day, outside of a few speculative transactions, business was quiet. Breadstuffs are without change, with a moderate inquiry only. Further South Australian correspondence confirms the estimates of the coming wheat crop as about 10 bushels to the acre, with a probable surplus of from 425,000 tons to 450,000 tons. In their circular of 8th instant, Messrs. Kaye and Carter, of Christchurch, New Zealand, state that the market had slightly eased, Tuscan wheat being worth 3s. 5d. to 3s. 6d. The somewhat protracted dry weather had given place to some refreshing showers, which would materially benefit the growing plant on the light lands. The English market at latest mail dates was substantially as quoted in our Saturday's cable intelligence; if anything, the prices having given way on the six weeks. Off coast Australian cargoes then quoted at 32s. 9d. are now at 32s. Locally, no business transpired in tea, the inquiry being naturally checked pending the offer of an auction catalogue of 2000 packages at the City Mart on Wednesday next. Epps' cocoa is still scarce, 1s. 7¾d. to 1s. 8d. being required by holders. There was an unusually brisk inquiry for sugar, with considerable sales, at up to £23 15s. to £24 for Queensland white; £22 to £23 for New South Wales white, a quantity of yellows being placed at £15 10s. in bond for export; 3700 bags and pockets of Queensland and colonial sugars are advertised for sale to-morrow (Tuesday) morning. In dried fruits there was some speculative inquiry for currants; 3½d. in bond refused for a considerable line, and 5¼d. to 5½d. duty paid is quoted, according to parcel; new elemes are being moved off in small lines at 6d., old fruit being at 4½d. to 4¾d.; for sultanas 6d. is the quotation; muscatels, to arrive within a fortnight, are offered at 1s. 3d. In fish there is little to notice; tinned salmon is obtainable at 8s. 10½d. to 9s., according to quantity. There is very little doing in other fish. Condensed milk, 6s. 4d. to 6s. 6d. for Dairymaid English. For brewers' goods there is still a very limited inquiry only, quotations being unaltered. English advices to hand to-day state that the market was very firm, and full prices easily obtainable. There had been a very large sale of choice Mid-Kent hops, at a range of £5 to £7 per cwt. In liquids, business to-day was decidedly slack, the sales transpiring being of a most unimportant character. The advance in geneva is maintained, 11s. 3d. being quoted. A London cablegram states that geneva had gone up 4d., and JDKZ 6d. Rum very dull of sale. In metals the reported advance in galvanised iron has been confirmed, and agents of Gospel Oak refuse to sell under £19 per ton to arrive; Orb selling at £18 10s.: Stork and other brands of iron have also moved up. Fencing wire firm. I. C. Coke tin plates are procurable at 17s. per box. Speculative demand noticed for cornsacks, and a parcel of 100 bales was placed; 6s. 4½d. to 6s. 6d. is required. There was some inquiry from Melbourne, where considerable sales have been made. Bran bags were also in more active request, and may be quoted as firm at 8s. 9d. Some business was done in cement at late quotations. From cable advices received from Frederickstadt, under date of November 7, 1887, we learn that freights thence to Sydney are quoted at £4 2s. 6d. per actual St. Petersburg standard.

Messrs. Harris and Ackman will offer at auction to-morrow (Tuesday) morning, sugars, provisions, spirits, &c.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, submitted a catalogue of 2211 bales wool at their sale to-day, and privately and by auction they sold 1029 bales. There was a large attendance of home and foreign buyers, and biddings throughout were very spirited. For good shafty free wools prices are firm at late quotations, but faulty and seedy lots are difficult to deal with, and prices offered are very irregular. Good shafty lambs are in strong demand, but short and medium sorts can only be placed at a reduction on lately ruling prices. Scoured wools are in short supply, and prices for this class are not so good comparatively as for wool in the grease. The following are the principal sales:—JC over Jerula 63 bales at 8d., from Cowra; S in diamond over Kindra, 58 at 8½d., from Wagga; Llangollen, 34 at 8d., from Cassilis; R over Mudgee over G. Rouse, 85 at 8¼d., R over Mudgee, 41 at 7¾d., from Mudgee; MP over C, 48 at 8¼d., from Narandera; 16 pieces at 5¾d., 14 lambs at 6½d., ERAT, 12 at 7¾d., from Goulburn; HC over Quirindi, 14 at 6d., from Quirindi; Heart A, 28 at 6¾d., from Millie; AMC, 8 at 8d., from Yerong Creek; WI over M, 16 at 7¼d., from Moree; BMO, 81 bellies at 4¾d., from Jugiong; CN, 13 greasy, from Parkes, at 7¾d.; Guntawang, 31 broken, at 5¾d., from Mudgee; JF over Uarah, 51 pieces at 6½d., from Grong Grong; RJ, 8 at 7¾d., JS over B, 12 at 6¼d., CB over B, 14 at 6¼d., JMP, 14 at 7¼d., 5 at 6¼d., from Parkes. Scoured: HG & P over Talyealye, 14 second combing at 13d., 56 first pieces at 10¼d.; Mumbledool, 18 second pieces at 9¾d., 13 bellies at 9¾d.; J over TC over N, 15 to 12¾d.; HD over A, 5 to 14¾d.; RJB over Walcha, 8 to 16d. A catalogue of dry skins was sold at from 4d. to 5d. for best, 3d. to 8¾d. for medium, and to 2¾d. for short.

From our English files to-day we learn that the English money market was still unsettled, owing to the stringency of the American money market. It seems that a number of the leading bankers of America had expressed the opinion that the Secretary of the United States Treasury was not restricted in his purchases of bonds to the amount of the sinking fund, but could use his surplus revenue for that purpose should the condition of the money market call for such action. Discussing this opinion, the Economist expressed doubts whether the Secretary of the Treasury had any such power, though its exercise might possibly be condoned in case of an emergency. But it urges that relief would be given if the Government were to deposit the surplus revenue with the banks for trade purposes, just as the money of the English Government was made available by being deposited with the Bank of England. The condition of the American money market on September 24 is thus referred to by the New York correspondent of the Economist:—"Representative merchants and manufacturers at the larger cities of the East, but particularly at New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, have centred their attention on the condition of the money market. General trade is generally active, and thus far collections have not begun to show signs of unusual scarcity of funds at the interior. The amount of money in circulation throughout the country has not been restricted; in fact it is declared that the total is 70,000,000 dollars in excess of the aggregate in circulation one year ago. In the summer of 1885 it will be recalled that about 70,000,000 dollars in money was piled up in the New York banks for which borrowers could not be found. At the present time, then, with fully 140,000,000 dollars of money in use in excess of the amount employed two years ago, we find ourselves paying 5 to 6 per cent. in Wall-street for money on call on stock and bond collateral—two and a-half times as much as three months or more ago—and in general lines of trade at New York 7 to 8 per cent. discount on prime double-name commercial paper, or one-third to nearly one-half more than early in the year."

The European Mail learns that increasing success attends the loading of the Australian Mutual Shipping Company's vessels. Two full ships for Sydney were dispatched in the month of September, and a larger vessel is advertised for October. For Melbourne two dispatches are contemplated during October, and Newcastle, New South Wales, is now brought within the scope of the company's operations.

The Economist gives some particulars of the heavy failures in the whisky trade of Scotland. It seems that the growing favour with which Scotch whisky was received so stimulated the production that the stock increased from 23,475,000 gallons in 1882 to 40,489,000 in March last, this latter figure being about five times the annual output. The stock of English whisky had increased from 7,570,000 gallons to 8,235,000 gallons, and that of Ireland from 20,591,000 gallons to 23,270,000 gallons during the same period. The banks had been over lavish in their assistance of this speculative enterprise, and a heavy liquidation, in which serious losses will be incurred, must take place.

The ship Derwent cleared at the Customs to-day for London with 7624 bales wool, 104 bales glue pieces, 37 bales leather, 5 bales basils, 1084 casks tallow, 24 casks oil, 80 casks oleine, 21 casks arrowroot, 4275 hides, 9850 horns, 19 bags horns, 3 bags sinews, 2 bags hair, 21 bags hoofs, 16 bags shank bones, 10 bags and a quantity of piths, 72 bags (7 tons) scrapiron, 3177 bags chrome (174 tons 3 cwt.) ore, 4 cases brushware, 1 case piano, 1 case clothing, 89 coils wire, 297 ingots (7 tons 17 cwt.) dross, 215 bags ashes (10 tons 5 cwt.), and 6 packages machinery.

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £2971 12s. 7d.; wine, still, £133 2s. 5d.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottles), £129 15s. 9d.; tobacco and snuff, £147 12s.; cigars, £215 5s. 10d.; tea, £194 4s. 5d.; coffee, £12 9s. 9d.; coffee (raw), £114 10s. 9d.; sugar (refined), £7 10s.; sugar (unrefined), £155 13s. 6d.; sugar (molasses), £66 13s. 4d.; rice, £12; dried fruits, £592 17s. 6d.; specific duty, £599 4s. 4d.; harbour and light rates, £21 5s. 4d.; excise on beer, £582 12s. 6d.; excise on cigars and cigarettes, £13 13s. 10d.; fisheries royalty, 12s.; total, £5970 15s. 10d.

BROOK'S COTTONS.

We request the assistance of the public in bringing to justice any infringement on our legal rights; and we shall be happy to pay handsomely for the conviction of any offender.
The public are cautioned against unscrupulous trades-people attempting to thrust on the consumers an inferior GLAZED Cotton purporting to be of the same character as BROOK'S PATENT GLACE COTTON. By adopting as near as they legally can our label, and the shape of our reel, persons are often able to mislead the public. For the sake of the large profit obtainable by selling an inferior article, some tradesmen are interested in pushing imitations on the market.
NOTE.—We guarantee the length of our Cottons as printed on each label. Underneath the label on each reel are stamped the words "J. BROOK and BROS." This protects the public from fraud by the removal of the labels.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1887.

It is to be hoped that the Parliamentary record of this week will be an improvement on that of last week. Friday has lately been taken as an extra sitting night for the transaction of business in the Assembly, and the report of the proceedings in our issue of Saturday will show how the arrangement is working. Nothing whatever in the way of business was done, or even attempted. From the dinner hour until nearly 1 o'clock on Saturday morning there was nothing but wrangling between the Government and the Opposition, and the House only got out of one disorderly scene to plunge into another. For this state of affairs the Opposition was chiefly to blame; it attacked the Ministry, and by its truculent tone incited the House to violence. But the Ministry were not altogether irresponsible. They were so far responsible, at all events, that they joined in the angry debate, and helped to keep it going. However, the attack was very annoying, and they would have been something more than mortal if they kept silence. Besides, when a Government is assailed it is bound to assert itself, unless it means to knock under altogether. While, therefore, Ministers might with advantage have shown less excitement, we are not disposed to criticise their conduct very narrowly. When a reply has to be made to a declaration of war it is not always made coolly.

The speeches from the Opposition benches were certainly very much like a declaration of war—war against the Government, war against Parliamentary business, war against the interests of the country. Mr. DIBBS was quite justified in calling attention to the state of public business, with the view of ascertaining the intentions of the Government; but if we understand the attitude which he and his followers take up, the object of the Opposition is to prevent any business being transacted at all unless everything is done exactly when they please and how they please. The Land Bill, they say, has not been long enough before the country for public opinion to find expression, therefore, it is to be obstructed. The financial statement ought to have been made before, and until Mr. BURNS has submitted his Budget everything is to be brought to a standstill. In other words, there is to be deliberate and systematic obstruction. Such is the interpretation to be placed upon Friday night's speeches. Does the Opposition really mean what it has said by the mouths of Mr. DIBBS and Mr. MELVILLE? If it does not, the Government will proceed with business in the ordinary way; if it does, it will be for Ministers to consider what course is to be taken to meet obstruction. Something must be done. The Government commands a large majority in the Assembly; it is in its place by the will of the country; and it has important business to bring forward. Its function is to govern the country; but it is really becoming a question as to whether the Government or the Opposition is to direct affairs. The Government is supposed to manage matters, but here we have the Opposition assuming the right to say when and how the business of the session shall be transacted; things are to go forward when it approves, and to stand still when it pleases.

If this sort of thing on the part of the Opposition is to be tolerated, what will become of Parliamentary government? What will become of the country? We shall have chaos in Parliament, and ruin outside. What pretext can the Opposition put forward for taking upon themselves the functions that belong to Ministers? Granted that the Government has made mistakes; granted that its policy has not always been strong, and that it has shown vacillation with regard to some of its measures—the Local Government Bill for example—granted that it would have been better if the financial statement had been made at an earlier date;—granting all these things, a Ministry must be allowed some latitude, especially a Government like this, which undertook the direction of affairs under almost unparalleled difficulties. It does not follow that because a Government fails to meet all our views, to satisfy all our ideas as to what a Government should be, we should throw it over, and give the direction of affairs to the Opposition. The Government is the Government until it is displaced in the legitimate and constitutional way; and as long as it remains in office it must rule.

If the Opposition persist in the course which they have threatened to take they will be rightly regarded as the enemies of the country. Obstruction, unless it is provoked by the abuse of strength on the part of the majority, is always inexcusable, and obstruction at the present time, when business is so much in arrear, would be particularly indefensible. The Opposition may fairly criticise the Government for not coming down with the Budget at an earlier period of the session; but it has no right to block all other business until the financial statement is made. If the TREASURER is not yet ready to submit the statement, obstructive tactics on the part of the Opposition will not make him ready; the only results that may be expected to flow from such conduct will be the waste of valuable time, and the loss of political character by those who take part in the obstruction. And, after all, it is only a question of a fortnight. The TREASURER has promised to make his statement on the 30th instant; and to stop all business because Mr. BURNS requires a couple of weeks in which to prepare himself would be as absurd as it is unjustifiable. Neither has the Opposition any right to throw obstacles in the way of the Land Bill. It is a mistake, as we have said before to-day, to attempt this large measure under present circumstances; but if the Government keep the bill before the House, it must be fairly dealt with and not obstructed. It is nonsense to call it a revolutionary measure, and it is also nonsense to say that Parliament ought not to consider it until the country has had five or six months for its digestion. Statements of this sort look very much like excuses for obstruction. But whether the obstructors excuse their conduct or make a boast of it, we venture to think that nothing in the shape of obstruction will be tolerated by the country. There has been too much of that sort of thing already, and the colony is now suffering because of it. At the elections which were held only a few months ago the country pronounced emphatically in favour of Sir HENRY PARKES, and the people in giving their votes certainly intended that he should have an opportunity of governing. But if the Opposition pursue the course they have threatened to take, they will usurp the functions of the Government, and at the same time prevent the country from being governed at all. Should obstruction be really attempted, the Government must resist it with all the strength of which they are capable. If they have to fight for their right to conduct public affairs, they may as well fight now, and if the contest does take place the Ministry will be supported in it by the opinion of the great bulk of the people. It is to be hoped, however, that the Opposition will think better of the matter, and settle down this week to honest work.

Sunday was far from being a peaceable day in London. This and yesterday morning's cablegrams tell of riotous proceedings at Trafalgar-square. For a month past the unemployed agitation has been going on, and the result of Sunday's meeting was but to be expected. Sir CHARLES WARREN'S prohibition of the meeting was to the Socialist societies as a challenge which they could not fail to turn to account, with, however, the usual result, so far as London is concerned. Seen from afar the affair has a very threatening appearance; but an examination of such details as are at hand, and the conditions under which the agitation and the riots occurred, does not give cause for a great deal of alarm. But such as they are, the disturbances are serious enough. Sunday was a favourable day for the agitators. Both working and idle London could be present to witness the defiance of authority and contempt for the law. Liberty of speech in a free country like England is a very dear privilege, and it might be expected that the Radical associations would have a good chance, with such a grievance as infringement of that right, to work upon the sympathies of the lower orders. And undoubtedly Sunday's uprising was a good test of their influence. WILLIAM MORRIS, the Socialist poet, was there to throw in his influence with the movement, while Mrs. BESANT, it is said, headed 10,000 Clerkenwell roughs. The police were prepared, a detachment of the Guards was present, and the magistrate read the Riot Act. But the agitators were out for a conflict, and they forced it. As might be expected, the police were triumphant. Messrs. CUNNINGHAM, GRAHAM, and BURNS, prominent Socialists, and four hundred others were arrested, seventy-five people were injured, and two policemen were stabbed. Compared with other disturbances that have occurred this is not remarkable in its results. The arrests that have been made will serve to test the question, of which the authorities have evidently not the slightest doubt, whether the police have a right to stop these meetings or not.

That the demonstration was not one of "the unemployed" is plainly to be seen. There was a vast number of spectators, but the agitators were, in the words of the cablegram, "several thousand," which might, like the metancoly of the blacks, mean few or many, but which taken relatively in this case would mean but a few thousand. Mrs. BESANT'S 10,000 Clerkenwell roughs appear upon the scene rather in the character, it would seem, of mercenaries, such as were paid to fight in the old days, and little caring what side it was on, so there was a row. It may safely be concluded that the agitation had passed out of the management of the unemployed into the hands of the Socialists and Anarchists. That the unemployed were somewhat startlingly prominent in the troubles a month ago, as they were in the troubles of 1886, there can be no doubt; but it must never be forgotten that they are in their distress very often but the tools of agitators who have not the getting of labour at heart, but the getting of bread and money without labour. An unemployed agitation is to HYNDMAN, BURNS, and Co. a windfall, so far as the furtherance of their aims is concerned. Not that the leaders of Socialism desire, perhaps, that people should starve and riot in order that Socialist ends might be served; but their gospel, without doubt, is, "if there is a breeze of trouble or discontent, fan it for the sake of the cause." Hence the "bread riots" and the "unemployed agitations" are merged into Socialist demonstrations. Undoubtedly Sunday's meeting amounted to that. The question of liberty of speech in public meeting, which is the battle-cry of the Socialists in this matter, is one which involves the highest rights of citizenship and should be held sacred. But the privilege is so sacred that it preserves also the true test of liberty, that no man shall do that which will interfere with the freedom of his fellow. When a public meeting is for a purpose which aims at lawlessness and the destruction of existing social conditions, it is the duty of the law to step in, and to preserve order at any cost. Such a meeting as this was beyond peradventure to be held in Trafalgar-square. To what extent it is wise to carry the prohibitory surveillance may not be so easy to decide. Our London letter, which we publish in to-day's issue, says that a great deal of irritation has been caused of late amongst the working men by this system of police espionage over their public meetings. In times of uneasiness this must necessarily occur if disorder is to be met promptly and decisively. It is rather strange to see the London police victorious over violence under the ordinary conditions of the law, while a Crimes Act seems necessary in Ireland to preserve peace.

Those who look at the dark side of things, and those who utilise every demonstration of distress or discontent for political purposes, will use these agitations to forecast gloomy prospects for the future, and to colour their arguments for present political need. Things are not by any means so bad as they might seem to the thoughtless observant ones, and to the politically discontented. All this Socialist agitation is upon the surface. With some it is a fad, with others a theory, and with others a means toward notoriety and ignoble ends. Socialism has been let to run in England with every chance to root itself in the life of society, but with no such result. There are no signs of a wide discontent in England. The agitation is confined mostly to London, and there it is made up, not of Englishmen, but largely of foreigners. London is the political and social refuge for the world, and the immense influx of Germans and French into the metropolis furnishes a constant recruiting service to the ranks of the Socialists. It is the same in the United States. Socialism there represents a disorderly foreign element, that consists of men who, perhaps having wrongs in their own countries, get a taste of liberty in America, which instead of making them grateful makes them riotous and anarchial. The hanging of the Chicago anarchists is the first step of the United States towards repression, and its effect will undoubtedly be salutary. Hitherto, like England, America has opened her arms to those of all lands; but both, when their own peace and safety are at stake, will vindicate the majesty of the law. The body of the Socialists in London may be reinforced from the ranks of the unemployed, but not to the alarming extent that might be supposed. Neither is the unemployed trouble so great as to warrant a hopeless feeling regarding the condition of the working classes in England. We have had ample testimony of late to show that the distribution of wealth is more even than it ever was before. Ample evidence has been given to this effect by the Committee of Inquiry into the depression of trade and industry in England, by the eminent economist Mr. GIFFIN, and other responsible authorities, and it may be concluded that, while the depression in trade has had largely to do with the present trouble, the influence of the Socialists has been behind much of the agitation. Later cablegrams inform us just before going to press that desperate rioting occurred in the Haymarket and in the Strand on Sunday night, and that the police were victorious. If, as the Radical leaders threaten, there will be another attempt to hold a meeting next Sunday, the consequences may be painful; but order must be maintained at any cost, and unhappy as the resort to force is, it is sometimes the only way that peace can be best preserved, and the permanent interests of society upheld.

The vexed question of smoke abatement formed a prominent feature in Mr. CRUICKSHANK'S address from the chair of the Engineering Association last Thursday evening, and came up again for special notice in Mr. BRUCE'S lecture at the School of Arts on Saturday. This colony's manufactures are as yet in their infancy, and, as we already know something of the unpleasantness of smoke pollution, it is as well that these gentlemen should sound their notes of warning as to the danger threatening the future of our city. The president of the Engineering Association confessed his inability to do more than emphasise the need for making the question an urgent study throughout the engineering ranks. Disappointing as this may seem, it is about as much as the greater authorities in England have as yet been able to achieve. From the Times' report of the last congress of the Sanitary Institute of Great Britain, which was held at Bolton during the third week of September, it appears that this subject is still at an almost hopeless stage, though a National Smoke Abatement Institute has long existed for the sole purpose of grappling with it. The president of this institute read a paper before the Congress, in which he complained that the numerous ments for minimising the nuisance were little more than a dead letter, since many of the administrators of the law were amongst the worst offenders, and as a result the penalties were so mitigated as to have little or no effect. The only result from his paper and the discussion it excited was a resolution asking the council of the Sanitary Institute "to take steps for ascertaining the best appliances for smoke abatement." It is therefore all the more satisfactory to hear the hopeful words of Mr. Bruce. In effect he affirms that not only is there no complication about the production of gas fuel for ordinary heating purposes, but that the question of expense need no longer be considered a difficulty. The only thing that suggests any discount from such good news is the stubborn fact that gas fuel has not as yet been resorted to by large consumers, and that the chief cities of countries boasting the greatest advances in engineering are still being polluted and begrimed with smoke. Can it be, as Mr. Bruce seems to suggest, that only a popular action about difficulties that have been abolished is answerable for such a wicked perpetuation of the smoke nuisance?

It is astonishing what an amount of reasoning of a certain kind can be brought in support of any scheme which has for its object the making of money. The concern exhibited for a good and palatable Sunday dinner for the dog seals of Manly is no doubt entitled to the admiration of the humane; albeit those who have seen the eagerness of the seals for the dead fish on a Saturday can hardly understand the statement that they regard these fish as unpalatable, except on the theory that their keepers want to get them into the ways of the country, and provide them with something extra on Sunday. They may have begun to pine since a Saturday or two ago, when they seemed to be wonderfully well and vigorous, especially when fighting for a share of the dead fish, which they devoured with an alacrity very exciting to the young folks who were spectators of the scene. If this is so, of course the management is to be commended for providing live shark as a change of fare. But would it not be well if the sense of refinement and humanity which has suggested this tasty repast for Sunday were cultivated a little further, and the dog seals allowed to enjoy their dinner in quietness and peace? Can it be seriously doubted that the animals would not be greatly disturbed by the grimaces and shouts of the larrikins who would inevitably be attracted to this festival? The concern for the shark also is very touching, and the comparison of the relative degrees of humanity exhibited in the work of destruction by the amateur fisherman and the dog seals will no doubt be judged on its merits. But through all this reasoning the real objection to the exhibition of a Sunday fight between a dog seal and a shark at the Manly Aquarium appears to have been lost sight of. An exhibition, in the shape of a dog-fight or a cock-fight, which tends to brutalise, has long ago been declared to be illegal. If unnecessary cruelty is exhibited in the catching of fish or the destruction of sharks it is not intended, and cannot well be helped. It also affords no justification whatever for the introduction of Sunday fights between sharks and seals; and we are glad to learn that the proprietors of the Aquarium intend to preserve their otherwise useful and interesting establishment free from a blemish which would have deprived it of the countenance of many respectable people.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Lord Carnarvon is expected to arrive in Sydney on the 12th December, and during his stay here he will be the guest of his Excellency the Governor.

Mrs. Fairfax will be at home at Admiralty House on Tuesday, November 22, and on Tuesday, December 6.

The estimates for 1888 were partly considered at a meeting of the Cabinet held yesterday. The financial statement, it has been definitely decided, will be delivered by the Treasurer on the 30th instant. The Government had also under consideration the advisableness of carrying out certain railway extensions regarding which representations have been made to them lately. These include the bringing of the North Shore Railway to the waters of Port Jackson at the most available point, the proposed North Coast Railway, the loop-line from St. Peters to Liverpool, and the railway to Corowa proposed by the late Government. No decision was arrived at regarding either of the projected lines.

At a meeting of the Cabinet held yesterday, the Government had before them the question of the proposed new street facing the General Post Office. Ministers are anxious, it is said, to bring the negotiations with the property-owners, regarding the resumption of the land required for the place, to a close. They cannot, however, admit the reasonableness of the terms required by those who own the land; and they are now considering the expediency of asking Parliament to pass a bill to enable them to deal with the question. Plans of a new block of buildings, to face the Post Office on the northern side, have been submitted for approval, and it is represented that the owners want an exorbitant price for the land which would have to be handed over to the Government before the projected buildings can be erected. On the other hand, it is asserted that no demand as to terms has been made by the property-owners, and that the Government have submitted no business offer for their consideration.

The Legislative Assembly will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and, judging from the amount of general business on the paper, the sitting is not likely to prove a short one. There are 20 questions on the paper, and amongst them is one by Mr. M'Elhone, relating to the appointment of Mr. Barling to the position of chief clerk in the Works Department. The orders of the day include the resumption of the adjourned debate on the second reading of the Hay and Deniliquin Tramway Bill, the second readings of the Municipalities Act Amendment Bill, the Pharmaceutical Society of New South Wales Incorporation Bill, the Electoral Act Amendment Bill, the Eight Hours Bill, the North Shore, Manly, and Pittwater Tramway and Railway Bill, the Yass Roman Catholic Church Land Sale Bill, the Ministerial Election Bill, the Judgment Creditors' Remedies Extension Bill, the Seduction Punishment Bill, the Original Grants of Land Boundaries Bill, the consideration in committee of the Perpetual Trustee Company Bill, the consideration in Committee of the Whole of the expediency of bringing in a bill for the prevention of contagious diseases. There is also the resumption of the adjourned debate on the motion of Mr. O'Sullivan,—"1. That a select committee, with power to send for persons and papers, be appointed to inquire into and report upon certain charges of misconduct alleged against Mr. Addison, Stipendiary Magistrate, by a meeting of cabmen and drivers. 2. That such committee consist of Mr. William Clarke, Mr. Gibbes, Mr. Frank Farnell, Mr. Hawken, Mr. Allen, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Melville, Mr. Gale, Mr. Chanter, and the mover;" and the consideration in Committee of the Whole of the following resolution:—"That, in the opinion of this House, in connection with the Centennial celebration, there should be offered a sum of £500 as a prize for a champion rowing race; £300 for an allegorical picture typical of the seven colonies, and commemorative of the first hundred years of colonisation in Australia; £200 for a historical picture illustrative of some event in the early years of Australian colonisation; £200 for a landscape picture illustrative of some similar event; £200 for the best commemorative poem; £200 for the best essay commemorative of the Centennial of the colony; £200 for the best musical composition." There are, also, upwards of 20 notices of motion on the paper, but they are not likely to be reached.

The work of preparing for the Centennial Intercolonial Exhibition, to be held in January, was advanced a few stages yesterday, at the council meeting held in the Agricultural Society's Rooms. There were present—Messrs. W. W. Richardson (in the chair), J. H. Hill, A. Town, J. De V. Lamb, G. N. Griffiths, G. S. Yeo, C. E. Fuller (Central Cumberland Society), A. J. Gray (Poultry and Dog Society), J. D. Single (Hawkesbury Society), A. Benson, J. H. Perrier, and J. P. Dowling. Letters were read from several kindred societies promising co-operation and exhibits. Mr. Gray reported that the suggestions for the Poultry and Dog section would be ready before the next council meeting; and with regard to the accommodation of the dogs and poultry, it was agreed that temporary additions to the buildings at present on the ground would meet all requirements. A long discussion took place on the question—Shall prizes be offered for imported stock? and eventually the following resolution, which is to be submitted for an opinion to the Premier, was carried:—"That all prizes from the Government money be devoted to colonial stock, products, and manufactures from colonial products only; and that prizes offered by the society from funds outside those of the Government be devoted to exhibits generally." Tenders for several structures to be erected on the show-ground are to be considered at the next meeting, which will be held at 2.30 p.m. on Thursday, when a reply from the Commissioner for Railways regarding the carriage of exhibits over the railways is expected. The council express a wish that the sub-committees appointed to make suggestions regarding the various sections of the schedule will submit their reports before the close of the present week.

An agreement has been come to between the various steamship companies trading to and from all Queensland ports whereby special rates will be charged for fares and freights. This arrangement came into force yesterday.

We understand that a special meeting of the Steamship Owners' Association will be held to-morrow morning to consider a new regulation which is to be enforced by the Customs authorities on the 1st December next. This regulation stipulates that landing-waiters on all wharfs will in future require to be paid overtime at the rate of 2s. 6d. per hour between the hours of 6 and 8 a.m. For some years the custom in the port of Sydney has been that landing-waiters should be at their posts to allow vessels to discharge from 6 a.m. till 6 p.m. during the summer months, and from 7 a.m. till 6 p.m. during the winter months. As it is the opinion of many of the mercantile firms in the city that no obstruction or extra cost should be imposed upon the quick delivery of cargoes in the port of Sydney, it is their hope that this new regulation will not be enforced without due consideration. In all probability a large deputation of those connected with steamers and oversea shipping will wait upon the Colonial Treasurer during the next few days with regard to the matter.

The disputed will case of Smith v. Nerney was concluded yesterday in the Equity Court, before his Honor the Chief Justice. By his will Nerney left property amounting to about £6000. He left his eldest daughter £3000, but excluded his three younger children altogether. The reason he gave for doing so was that he did not believe they were his own. In delivering a lengthy judgment, his Honor alluded to the painful nature of the case, and pointed out that it was not enough for him to come to the conclusion that it was a cruel will, emanating from a wicked, malicious, and debased man, but he must say whether or not it was the will of a man who was not of sound mind. The onus of proof of soundness of mind rested upon those who propounded the will. It was but reasonable, when a man made a will which was neither consonant with natural affections or with moral duty, to inquire whence this arose. The fact of delusions existing which, if connected with the provisions of a will, rendered a man of unsound mind for the purpose of making such will was quite compatible with shrewdness in business and the most perfect capacity for money-making. After reviewing the facts of the case, his Honor, from the evidence, came to the conclusion that the charges of unfaithfulness the testator made against his wife were utterly and entirely groundless. He irresistibly came to the opinion that the will of 1887 was a will made by a man suffering from a diseased brain. It was therefore impossible for it to stand; the previous will of 1880 fell with it, and he declared that John Nerney died intestate in law, and ordered that the costs of both sides come out of the estate.

An interesting case, bearing upon an alleged breach of the 28th section of the Constitution Act, was argued and decided in Banco yesterday. In December, last year, Wm. C. Proctor, who was then a member of the Legislative Assembly, was sued by David Proudfoot, under the section already mentioned, for that, "while such member, he did, by himself, or by some person or persons in trust for him, and for his own use and benefit, and on his account, undertake, execute, hold, and enjoy a certain contract, or agreement, for or on account of the Public service, to wit the contract for the construction of No. 3 section of the Illawarra railway, and that while so interested he continued to hold his seat in the Assembly and voted as a member." The hearing of the action extended over several days, and the jury found in favour of the plaintiff, the defendant thereby forfeiting the penalty provided by the 29th section of the Act, namely £500. Against this decision Mr. Proctor now appealed. The Court, consisting of Mr. Justice Innes, Mr. Justice Deffell, and Mr. Justice Owen, unanimously held that the defendant in taking an assignment of the contract in question from Logan, the real contractor with the Government, had not committed a breach of the 28th section or rendered himself liable to the penalty provided for in the 29th, inasmuch as he had not entered into a contract or agreement with the Government for or on behalf of the public service. The rule nisi for a new trial was therefore made absolute with costs.

His Honor Mr. Justice Stephen sat in Divorce yesterday at the Darlinghurst Court. A commencement was made with the case of Comer v. Comer and others, which promises to be rather a lengthy one. The petitioner, who is the husband, petitions for a dissolution of marriage on the grounds of the respondent's adultery with three co-respondents. The greater part of the day was occupied in taking the evidence of the petitioner, and only one other witness was examined. The case will be resumed this morning at 10 a.m.

His Honor the Primary Judge delivered judgment yesterday in a matter in which the Master in Lunacy raised the question of the legality of a settlement of property made by a patient named George King upon his wife, the issue being whether a lunatic can in a lucid moment himself dispose of his property, or whether it is by law vested in the Master in Lunacy. His Honor came to the conclusion that a deed executed under the circumstances was not void but only voidable. In every case the capacity or incapacity of the patient must be proved, and if such capacity be proved, the patient could alienate by deed as he undoubtedly could by will. He therefore decided that in cases of this sort the deed could only be avoided by a suit in equity.

We are asked to notify that the jurors summoned to attend the Darlinghurst Causes Court, on Thursday next, the 17th instant, will not be required at all.

The hearing of appeals from the decisions of magistrates will take place at Darlinghurst, before Judge Dowling, on Thursday next.

The new Town Hall at Camperdown was yesterday opened by an inaugural banquet, at which a large number of guests were present, including a Minister, members of Parliament, mayors, aldermen, and others, and the whole proceedings were thoroughly enjoyable and successful. A report of the proceedings appears in another part of this issue.

The new graving-dock at Biloela has reached such an advanced stage in construction that less than 12 months ought to suffice for its completion. The new dock will be about 638 feet in length, will have a width of 84 feet, and at high tide will have 32 feet of water on the sill. The dock is said to be one of the largest in the world, and to be capacious enough for docking any vessel afloat, with the exception of the Great Eastern.

The foundation stone of a new tobacco works, to be known as the New York and Brooklyn Tobacco Factory, now in course of erection at Redfern, for Mr. Mick Simmons, was laid at 1 p.m. yesterday by the Hon. John Sutherland, Minister for Works. There was a number of gentlemen present to witness the ceremony, including the Hon. B. R. Wise (Attorney-General), and Messrs. W. Schey and J. Hawthorne, Ms.L.A. After the stone had been declared to be faithfully and truly laid, an adjournment was made to a spacious marquee close by where luncheon was partaken of, and a lengthy list of toasts honoured. The new factory, when finished, will be a very substantial building has a handsome frontage to Cleveland-street, and will contain, exclusive of basement and roof flat, six stories. Standing detached from all other buildings, the access to light and ventilation that will be afforded will give an unsurpassed advantage for manufacturing purposes. The several stories contain an area of over half an acre of floor space, and are lofty and well aired; a hoist and the necessary stairs will afford a ready and ample means of communication between the different floors. With such extensive floor space, the machinery and other appliances for manufacturing the leaf will, therefore, be most suitably placed in position. Great attention has been paid in the plan of construction, so as to minimise the risks from fire, and to economise as much as possible the application of heat and labour. Many essential improvements in machinery will be introduced to insure the production of well-finished goods. Steam will be the motive power for all the machinery. The interior of the building will have the pleasing appearance of a factory strongly built and well-proportioned in its various details. The walls are to be built of light-coloured and red bricks, with a bold cement cornice on top and dressings of the same material. Mr. R. Kunstman, of this city, is the architect and consulting engineer, and under his direction the factory is being erected.

A meeting of the works committee of the West Botany Council was held last evening, under the presidency of the Mayor, Mr. W. G. Judd, for the purpose of opening tenders for the erection of a town hall at Rockdale. Of the 13 tenders that had been sent in that of Mr. A. Sweatman, of Paddington, was accepted, the contract price being £2495. The site of the new building is a block of land measuring 100ft. by 134ft., situated at the intersection of Bryan-street and Rocky Point-road.

A public meeting of ratepayers of West Botany was held last evening in the local Council-chambers, for the purpose of inaugurating a band for the parish of St. George, which comprises Kogarah, Hurstville, and West Botany. The Mayor of West Botany (Mr. W. G. Judd) presided, and among those also present were Aldermen Smyth, Huntley, Price, Green, Jeeves, Cooke, and Godfrey, and Mr. Thomas Leeder. About 20 gentlemen in all were assembled. In opening the meeting, the chairman expressed his opinion that if a band were formed it would prove a source of considerable amusement to those resident in the district. He urged that there were numerous resorts in the locality suitable for use by picnic parties, and that a local band for such movements would be a great acquisition. In conclusion, he suggested that some gentlemen should canvass the district for subscriptions. It being unanimously resolved that the band be formed, an executive committee, consisting of the Mayor, Aldermen Smyth, Jeeves, Green, Archbold, and Huntley, and Mr. Tidd, with power to add to their number, was appointed to carry out the necessary arrangements. Mr. F. W. Tidd accepted the position of honorary secretary, and Alderman Cooke that of honorary treasurer. Subscriptions amounting to £12 8s. were collected in the room.

A meeting of the board of management of the New South Wales Typographical Association was held on Saturday evening last, in the rooms, 119, King-street. Mr. C. Jones occupied the chair. It was decided to give every support to Mr. Schey's Eight-hours Bill. A letter was received from the Trades and Labour Council asking assistance for the silk hatters, and a resolution was carried that £5 be voted. The revision of rules was then proceeded with.

The weekly meeting of the Petersham Literary Society was held on Thursday evening last, in the school hall, Railway-street, Mr. John Henderson being in the chair. Mr. Kirkpatrick, the essayist of the evening, having been unavoidably prevented from fulfilling his engagement, the chairman opened a discussion upon the works of Charles Dickens, and read several extracts from the "Tale of Two Cities," bearing upon the French Revolution. A lively conversation followed, in which Messrs. Wilks, Slade, Maxwell, Slocombe, Stout, and others took part. It was announced that the subject for next Thursday would be "British Journalism of the Victorian Epoch," by Mr. Henderson.

The weekly meeting of St. Stephen's Young Men's Institute took place at their rooms at Newtown on Friday last. The evening's entertainment consisted of a "mock municipal election" for the borough of Newtown. This proved very amusing, all the formalities of a real election being observed, and many of the candidates receiving a very "warm reception." On a poll being taken, Messrs. Molesworth, M'Keown, and M'Queen were found duly elected, and with a vote of thanks to Mr. Colbourne, "returning officer," the meeting closed.

Yesterday the central committee of the Church Association of New South Wales held a meeting at the chambers of the president. The chair was taken by Mr. E. Burton. After the routine business, the honorary secretaries read many letters from the branches and members; in them were donations and promises towards the salary of an organising secretary. It was decided to appoint the Rev. C. Duppuy, rector of Kurrajong, at a stipend of £500 per annum, exclusive of travelling expenses. To further the work of the association, whose object it is to uphold the principles of the Protestant Reformed Church of England, it was resolved that in January next should be issued the first number of the New South Wales Church Intelligencer as the official organ of the association. Applications having been received from various colonies asking for data, and stating that the writers are anxious for the inception of branches, the secretaries were requested to furnish the required information. It was decided, as the president, Mr. W. J. Foster, Q.C., was not able, owing to his recent illness, to accept the invitation to be present at the annual meeting of the West Maitland branch, which is to be held there on the 30th of this month, that the Rev. C. Duppuy should attend as a deputation on behalf of the parent association. Some minor matters were disposed of, and the meeting terminated.

On Friday last a bazaar in aid of the Church of England, Katoomba, was opened at the Katoomba public hall, and continued successfully during Friday and Saturday, with the result that the whole of the goods were sold, and a substantial sum obtained in aid of the local church, the proceeds of one stall alone (Mrs. Goyder's) amounting to over £80. It had been intended to hold the bazaar on the 9th November, but the heavy downpour of rain on that day compelled its postponement until Friday. The opening ceremony was performed by Lady Darley, who, in a few appropriate sentences, expressed the pleasure she felt in assisting on such an occasion, and her intention to do what she could to make the display a success. Among those present on the platform were Lady Manning and Miss Manning, Sir William and Lady Stawell, and the Rev. W. A. and Mrs. Leach. There was an excellent display of goods on the various stalls, which were under the charge of Mrs. F. C. Goyder, assisted by Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. George Lord, Miss Lee, and Mrs. Jackson; Mrs. M'Killop; Mrs. Leach and Mrs. Neate; Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Temperley; Miss Hodge and Mrs. Goodwin. There was also a flower stall, under the charge of Miss Symonds. On Friday evening a concert was given in connection with the bazaar, when an excellent programme of songs and instrumental music was gone through. Mrs. Dawson Edwards contributed very much to the enjoyment of those present, and her efforts were excellently seconded by her pupil, Miss Fryer, a girl of 11 or 12, who sang so well that she was enthusiastically encored. Among the others who took part in the concert were Miss Wood, Mrs. Neate, Miss Symonds, and Mr. and Mrs. Prott. The boys of Mr. Rienits' school, at Mount Victoria, and Mr. Fletcher's College, at Katoomba, assisted in making the bazaar a success; the former sending their fife-and-drum band, and the latter conducting an "art gallery," made up of amusing and ingeniously-devised "sells."

A united Protestant service, to commemorate the Gunpowder Treason and Plot, was held in the Town Hall, Parramatta, on Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of Loyal Orange Lodges Nos. 8, 68, and 104. The attendance was very large, the spacious building being packed in every portion. The Rev. T. S. Forsaith presided, and delivered an introductory address. Mrs. Edith O'Gorman Auffray ("The Escaped Nun"), Rev. C. Taylor, and Rev. W. M'Callum, also took part in the service. The choirs of the various Protestant churches in the town rendered the musical portion of the proceedings in a most creditable manner. A collection was taken up during the afternoon, and the singing of the National Anthem and pronouncing of the benediction brought the service to a close.

The letter of our London correspondent, which we publish in another column, treats of the meeting between Prince Bismarck and the Italian Prime Minister, Signor Crispi; the action of the police in the suppression of public meetings in London, and the great social turf scandal case, viz., the warning off the turf by the Jockey Club to the Marquis of Ailesbury. Our correspondent also refers to the annual conference of the Baptist Union, the intention of Mr. Froude to bring out a companion work to "Oceana," Sir Saul Samuel's wish to have Mr. Boehm's statue of the Queen shipped to Sydney in time to be unveiled at the Centennial celebrations, fresh purchases made by Sir Saul in connection with Captain Cook relics, and other matters of interest.

Mr. David Buchanan asks us to add some particulars to the telegram which referred to the lecture on protection which he delivered at the Australian Hall, Orange, last Friday evening. Mr. Buchanan says: "The hall is quite as large as any hall in Sydney, and it was crowded to the door, several people standing there. At the conclusion of my address, which was received with high approval, a motion to that effect was unanimously carried. Mr. Torpy then moved, and Mr. Hawke seconded, a motion in favour of the principle of protection, which was carried, only four hands being held up against it. A league was formed, and several names, as well as money, received. Mr. James Dalton occupied the chair, and the platform was crowded by many of the leading citizens of Orange."

An "Old Digger" writes calling attention to a letter of the prospecting board of the Sofala district recommending aid from the Government to assist in working some of the old claims in the district. Our correspondent states that if aid were granted it would be a waste of public money—he knows the ground well, he says—and hopes for the good of his fellow working man that such a suggestion will meet with its just reward.

At the Darlinghurst Quarter Sessions yesterday Joseph Lee, who was last week convicted of stealing from a dwelling, was sentenced to be imprisoned four years in Parramatta gaol; and Peter Halkett, who on Friday was found guilty of maliciously wounding, was sent to the same gaol for three years. William Robinson, found guilty of robbery with violence, was remanded till to-day for sentence; and Thomas Elliott, charged with assault and robbery, was acquitted. The cases against William Flavell, charged with indecent assault, and James Henderson Stuart, charged with maliciously wounding, were postponed until next sessions, bail being allowed in both cases. The Court will sit again to-day, and the sessions probably be brought to a close to-morrow.

John Kelly, a youth, and Alfred Marsh, a grey-headed old man, received respectively 24 and 12 lashes in the Darlinghurst Gaol quadrangle yesterday evening, as part punishment for the commission of an abominable offence. Kelly, who was the first to undergo a flogging, howled and yelled piteously at the top of his voice whilst the flagellator was applying the cat to his bared shoulders. Marsh, a thick-set, well-developed man, bore his chastisement stoically at first; but, after seven strokes of the cat-o'-nine-tails had fallen, he screamed in agony, and eventually he had to be led from the triangles to the cells. Both culprits felt their punishment acutely.

The following cases were treated at the Sydney Hospital yesterday:—William Carr, painter, aged 26 years, suffering from a fracture of both bones of the right leg, caused by a heavy plank at Dalgety's Wharf falling upon him. Speseppi Dominick, an Italian labourer, aged 36 years, suffering from fracture of the left arm and a shock, besides bruises on the chest and legs, received through falling from a scaffolding in Elizabeth-street, Waterloo.

At about half-past 11 o'clock last night a middle aged man, whose name was ascertained to be Timothy Driscoll, was picked up in an insensible condition in Cosgrove's yard, Castlereagh-street. It appears that he was a groom and was allowed to sleep in the loft on the premises, and that by some means he must have fallen from the floor above on to the flags below. He was at once conveyed to the Sydney Hospital, but on reaching that institution life was found to be extinct. An inquest will probably be held on the body.

The following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral this afternoon, 4.30:—Magnificat, Kempton, in B flat; Nunc Dimittis, Kempton, in B flat; anthem, "The Lord descended from above." Hayes.

The secretary of the Casual Labour Board informs us that in a recent paragraph regarding the work performed under the direction of the board, the roadwork at Dobroyd is specified as 76 miles, whereas it should read 1 mile 76 chains. The figures given with reference to Carlingford are quite correct. The whole area of the Field of Mars (Carlingford and Beecroft combined) does not make 6000 acres, so that the estimate of 8000 acres for Carlingford alone, as made by one of our correspondents, is an error.

The following is the report of the Sydney Hospital for the week ended 12th November:—Admitted, 36 males, 13 females; discharged, 31 males, 8 females; died, 3 males; remaining, 134 males, 77 females; casualties treated, but not admitted, 534.

The following is the report of the Prince Alfred Hospital for the week ending 12th November, 1887:—Number of in-patients at last report, 131 males 78 females; since admitted, 22 males 12 females; discharged, 22 males 11 females; died, 3 males 1 female; remaining in hospital on 12th November, 128 males 78 females; number of out-patients treated during the week, 333; number of casualty cases treated but not admitted, 91. Total, 424.

THE CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY.

[By Cable.]
(From our own Correspondent.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.

Dr. Schroeder advises the removal of the whole of the larynx from the Crown Prince's throat. Dr. Krause is in favour of tracheotomy, but Sir Morell Mackenzie's opinion is that a piece of the growth of the tumour should be extracted, and the medical attendants should await the result of Professor Virchow's analysis of it.

Nov. 14.

The Crown Prince is better to-day. He shows great fortitude.

The German and Viennese specialists concur with Sir Morell Mackenzie that Professor Virchow should examine a piece of the morbid growth in the Prince's throat before the operation is performed.

(Reuter's Telegram.)

BERLIN, Nov. 13.

Sir Morell Mackenzie will leave San Remo for London to-morrow. He will return in December. It is stated that the Crown Princess and the members of the Imperial family are strongly averse to an extreme operation being performed on the Prince's throat. The Crown Prince himself shows most marvellous composure.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

RIOTS IN LONDON.

THE UNEMPLOYED AGITATION.

IMMENSE CONCOURSE AT TRAFALGAR SQUARE.

SERIOUS ENCOUNTERS BETWEEN THE POLICE AND THE MOB.

SEVENTY-FIVE PEOPLE BADLY INJURED.

FOUR HUNDRED ARRESTED.

[By Cable.]
(From our own Correspondent.)

LONDON, Nov. 13, 8.20 a.m.

The Pall Mall Gazette is violently inciting the populace to assemble in thousands and march to Trafalgar-square to-day.

Sir Charles Warren, Chief of the Metropolitan Police, has forbidden all processions to Trafalgar-square.

Nov. 13, Night.

In defiance of the prohibition issued by Sir Charles Warren against the holding of a meeting in Trafalgar-square to-day, a large concourse assembled. Thirty thousand persons, mostly respectable spectators, encircled the square. Several thousand police were present, and there was a strong detachment of the Guards, with fixed bayonets. A magistrate was in attendance, and, after warning the meeting to disperse, he read the Riot Act, but to no purpose.

The first collision between the police and the mob occurred in Shaftesbury-avenue, where 10,000 Clerkenwell roughs, headed by Mrs. Besant and W. Morris, were assembled. A severe fight took place, the mob attacking the police with sticks. The police, however, succeeded in dispersing the mob. Another procession made a stand, and a collision with the police ensued, sticks and stones being freely used in the encounter.

Incessant skirmishes took place in the vicinity of Trafalgar-square, the mounted police insisting on the crowds moving away. Batons were freely used, but on the whole the police acted with admirable moderation. Cunningham, Graham, and Burns, the Socialist leaders, were arrested. Mrs. Besant invited the police to arrest her, but they refused to do so.

The worst conflict took place near the Parliament Houses, where the police encountered a procession from Lambeth.

Four hundred persons were arrested. Two policemen were stabbed.

Nov. 14.

The press commends the moderation of the police.

Many of the mob were armed with iron bars, knives, pokers, and gas pipes.

The wounds received by the mob were less severe than those of the constables.

In many places during the disturbances the constables and soldiers were cheered.

One of the rioters was bayonetted.

Fifty of the rioters are now lodged in gaol, the others who were arrested having been released.

(Reuter's Telegram.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.

Four hundred arrests were made this afternoon and evening in connection with the disturbances which occurred in Trafalgar-square and other places, including Mr. R. C. Graham, member for the North-west Division of Lanarkshire. Seventy-five persons were so badly injured that they had to be taken to the hospitals. The police encountered and broke up a procession which had been formed by the agitators before it reached Trafalgar-square. The principal disturbance and fight occurred in close proximity to the Houses of Parliament, the police there encountering several thousands of persons who had marched over Westminster Bridge from South London.

Two policemen were stabbed by the mob, but the police were everywhere victorious.

Nov. 14.

Last night desperate conflicts between the police and the mob occurred in the Haymarket and the Strand. Many of the former were severely injured. Ultimately the police were victorious, and succeeded in dispersing the crowd and restoring order.

The Radical leaders declare that the attempt to hold a meeting at Trafalgar-square will be repeated next Sunday.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

LONDON, Oct. 14.

Mr. Chamberlain's visit to Ulster is the chief political event of the week. He was received with the utmost enthusiasm by great gatherings of Irish loyalists, whilst the hostile demonstrations were few. In Ulster the speeches of Mr. Chamberlain boldly reaffirmed his Radical opinions, but admitted that for the moment greater issues were at stake. "The Union must be saved at all cost. Its repeal must injure Great Britain and bring disaster upon Ireland." A new incident occurred to emphasise the general insecurity of property in Ireland. Thirty horses, valued at over £2000, belonging to Captain Stead, a gentleman who, it is stated, had no quarrel with anyone, have been poisoned wholesale at Clonsilla. Already over a dozen are dead.

Rumours are current of a reconstitution and strengthening of the Ministry before the end of the year. It is thought probable that Lord Hartington may join the Cabinet; but it is difficult to say what position he would assume. The changes, it is thought, will be mostly limited to peers, and it is stated that Lord Cross will retire, giving place to Lord R. Churchill.

A Reuter's telegram from Zanzibar states that the approach of the Stanley expedition throughout the tribes in the vicinity of the Albert Nyanza is causing great excitement, especially in Nyanda, where war with Unyoro still continued. Mywanga had sent messengers to Emin Pasha inquiring about the expedition, and it is thought to indicate that Mywanga is seeking to win the support of Emin, who could then extend his influence in that quarter. Emin Pasha has decided to send two expeditions to meet Stanley, one proceeding in a southern direction to Albert Nyanza, and the other going to Mhagie, Emin's military position on the western shore of the lake, then advancing westward across the Blue Mountains.

The Caffarel scandal at Paris is daily assuming larger proportions, and will be greatly intensified by the General Boulanger incident. The Journal des Debats, and several other leading journals, accuse M. Wilson, President Grevy's son-in-law, of complicity and trafficking in decorations in connection with Madame Simonsen. General Count D'Audlau, a member of the Senate, is also compromised, but is keeping out of the way to escape arrest.

At a conference of ladies held in Bond-street on the subject of dress, it was decided that the plumage of small birds should no longer be considered as fashionable trimming for robes or bonnets.

For the time of year extremely cold weather has set in throughout the British isles, snow having fallen in considerable quantities in the northern districts. London has also been visited by sharp frosts and a slight fall of snow.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt throughout Rhondda Valley, South Wales, on Wednesday, accompanied by a rumbling noise, creating considerable alarm amongst the miners and others.

The committee of the Royal Geographical Society has intimated to Mr. Joseph their intention to make a loan to Mr. Bevan, on his approaching expedition to New Guinea, of some useful instruments. Captain Currie said that for five years the association had received a share of the insurance business of the Government, but a few days ago they received a communication from the Treasury to the effect that the Government business would be withdrawn. Mr. Gillies replied that it had been decided from a public point of view that it would be wiser and safer to deal with incorporated companies than with associations of private individuals not incorporated. Nothing had occurred to cause the slightest distrust in the Australian Lloyds Association.

Respecting the seizure of milling machinery under valuation at the Customs, the Commissioner of Trade and Customs has ordered the detention of the goods pending an explanation from the importer. The department will thus be able to combat any assertion by an importer that he did not empower an agent to make a declaration.

MASONIC BANQUET TO LORD CARNARVON.

(BY TELEGRAPH.)
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

The Freemasons of Victoria under the English Constitution entertained Lord Carnarvon, M. W. P. Grandmaster of England, at a luncheon in the Freemasons' Hall to-day. About 200 gentlemen were present, amongst whom were the leading dignitaries of the English, Irish and Scottish Constitutions. Sir W. J. Clarke, M.L.C., R.W. District and Provincial G.M. of Victoria, presided, having the guest on his right, wearing the chain, collar, jewel, and apron of his office. The chairman proposed the toast of "Our Guest." Lord Carnarvon, on rising to respond, had a most hearty reception. After apologising for the absence of the Governor, he said he should have a wondrous tale to tell the English brethren of Masonry in the great colony of Victoria. When he looked at the great building where they were met, and this princely town with its broad streets, magnificent buildings, and great institutions, and when he remembered that 50 years ago this was a tangled forest, he could not refrain from expressing wonder that Masonry had kept pace with other institutions, and it was a pleasure to him to think that with other institutions Masonry was the seed dropped by the hands of the English sower. In many parts of the world Masonry had been associated with ideas of discord, internal faction, and sedition. Our Masonry had known nothing of this. Our record was perfectly clean. We were associated only with ideas of law and order, constitutional rule, and sympathetic charity. The Queen was patron of the order, the Prince of Wales was the Grand Master, and 17 members of the Royal Family of England at different times had either filled the high office of Grand Master, or had occupied other high positions of trust in the craft. Freemasons were the pillars of law and order, and great societies like this played a large part in the life and history of the people. He would say that the earnest desire in England was, that the younger generation shall not be allowed to let their hearts grow cold to the old country, but that they should be taught that although Australia was their dear birthplace, there was an island in the Northern Sea which claimed the affection and was the home and, so to speak, the seat of the whole Empire. They were looked on with pride and satisfaction as kith and kin, as sons of old England, as the young swarm that have gone forth from the parent hive. The chairman presented Lord Carnarvon with a massive jewel, commemorative of his visit.

THE CENTENARY CELEBRATION BY THE CHURCHES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

A meeting of the committee organised with a view to the celebration of the Centenary by the churches was held to-day. Dr. Warren was in the chair, and there was a representative attendance of Protestant ministers. It was agreed that the title of the movement be the Centennial Mission; that the attention of the community be drawn to the great mercies enjoyed in Australia since the first act of settlement, and that the people of Victoria be asked to recognise these by some public act of national thanksgiving; that mission services be arranged for town and country; that efforts be made to increase the circulation of the Scriptures in the homes of the people in order to secure a more careful training of the young, and to urge on the community a deeper regard for the Sabbath. It was suggested that the public thanksgiving be fixed for January 26.

Two applications have been made to the Supreme Court to-day for injunctions to restrain the Q. T. C. from paying the stakes in the Sandgate Handicap.

A meeting of the Queensland Turf Club committee was held this afternoon. The circumstances connected with the Sandgate Handicap which led to the disgraceful proceedings on the racecourse on Saturday were taken into consideration. It is understood that after deliberating for two hours the committee decided that the most advisable course to adopt was to uphold the previous decision, and award the stakes to Honest Ned.

TRICKETT AND HANLAN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ROCKHAMPTON, MONDAY.

At a meeting of the Trickett v. Hanlan committee to-day, a reply was received from Hanlan declining to make a fixture until after the match with Beach. This was considered tantamount to a refusal, and it was decided to call a meeting of the subscribers to Trickett's guarantee fund for Thursday to consider the matter further. Peter Kemp has written to Trickett offering to row him on terms similar to those offered to Hanlan. In the course of the meeting it was stated that Hanlan would row at Rockhampton if a purse of £500 was subscribed by the Rockhampton people, or at Parramatta for £500 a-side, and allow Trickett £100 for expenses. Trickett, however, said he would row nowhere but on the Fitzroy River.

PRESENTATION TO MR. W. C. GREVILLE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BATHURST, MONDAY.

One of the most influential gatherings ever assembled in Bathurst witnessed a presentation this afternoon to Mr. W. C. Greville, late manager of the A. J. S. Bank here, who is now retiring after 24 years' local service. The presentation, which consisted of a beautifully illuminated address and a gold watch and guard, was made by the Mayor, Dr. Machattie, who in a highly eulogistic speech referred to Mr. Greville's long and useful career. Subsequent speakers, including the Hon. George Lee, Mr. Benjamin Lee, P.M., Mr. James Rutherford, J.P., and Dr. Spencer, all bore hearty testimony to Mr. Greville's usefulness as a citizen and his private worth. The recipient, in responding, feelingly acknowledged the valuable gift. A presentation of a necklet richly set in pearls was also made to Miss Greville in token of the appreciation of her ready willingness on all occasions to assist in charitable and public objects. The departure of Mr. Greville, who has had a colonial banking career of 40 years, is much regretted in the district, as he has been foremost in every public movement, particularly identifying himself with the Bathurst Hospital. Of this institution he was 15 years treasurer, and the erection of the present fine buildings and its sound financial position are largely due to his energy and skill. Mr. Greville was entertained at a farewell dinner at the Royal Hotel to-night.

COWRA, MONDAY.

In the course of the season we had several weeks of very dry weather, intensified by winds, which dried up the soil during that period. The early-sown wheat crops especially were in a languishing condition, which subsequent rains have not much improved. Both in respect to these and the late sown crops it is feared the yield will be below the record of former years. Within three weeks all the crops in the district will have seeded and ripened, and any further improvement in the quality of the grain can scarcely be expected now.

A young man named John Jones, a resident of East Maitland, died yesterday from the result of injuries received on Thursday morning last at the High-street Railway station, when he was struck by the buffer of the engine of an approaching train. The weather is fine.

YASS, MONDAY.

PROPOSED CHILLED MEAT DEPOT AT BOURKE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BOURKE, MONDAY.

A meeting was held to-night to consider the best steps to be taken to assist the deputation which, it is understood, is to wait on the Minister for Works in reference to the formation of chilled meat depots at Bourke and other centres of population. Alderman Richard Green was in the chair, and there was a good attendance. The chairman pointed out the great benefits which would accrue to both producer and consumer, and also to the stock itself. The first resolution was moved by Mr. F. E. Bloxham, as follows:—"That this meeting desires to urge upon the Government the desirability of establishing a chill room for chilling and storing meat in connection with the terminal station of the Great Western Railway." He said he believed the Government would be only too glad to establish chill depots, in order to utilise the vast expenditure already incurred in Sydney. No doubt great opposition to the proposal would be shown by the city agents and ringmen. The motion was seconded by Mr. E. D. Millen and carried. It was proposed by Mr. D. M'Alister,—"That this meeting requests the members for the district to form part of the deputation to wait on the Minister to urge upon the Ministry the desirability of the formation of chill depots at this most important trucking centre of the colony." The motion was seconded by Mr. J. Parsons, and carried. Mr. T. W. Hardwick said that they should endeavour to secure the influential support of the stock owners of the surrounding districts, and should appoint a secretary, and work the matter up, so as to strengthen the hands of the deputation. He also suggested that subscriptions be raised to supply the necessary finances. Mr. Parsons suggested that this was a matter that should be referred to the Pastoral Protection Association. Mr. Millen pointed out that already steps had been taken in Sydney, and that probably before any organisation could be made here, that deputation would have done its work. Other speakers expressed their approval of the proposition, and the matter was freely discussed. A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the proceedings.

THE LAND BILL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

COONABARABRAN, MONDAY.

An unusually large meeting of landholders was held at Merrygoen on Saturday, Mr. Thomas Luckie in the chair. The following resolutions were carried:—Proposed by Mr. W. Hosking, and seconded by Mr. Duncan Loudon,—"That all rentals of leaseholds should be fixed by the local boards, subject to approval by a central non-political board, entirely free from the control of the Minister for Lands." Proposed by Mr. P. Buckley, and seconded by Mr. A. London,—"That this meeting approves of many of the principles contained in the new Land Bill, but considers that all worth retaining should be condensed into less than 100 sections, otherwise it will involve the employment of lawyers and land agents at every stage, in ruinous expense and uncertainty to small land-holders. Proposed by Mr. G. Hosking, and seconded by Mr. W. Patrick.—"That the principle of the minimum rental being fixed by law injuriously limits the action of the local boards, which are in the best position to judge of the actual value of the land, and causes unnecessary loss to lessees and the country." Proposed by Mr. P. Buckley, and seconded by Mr. W. Patrick,, "That the rents cannot be fairly appraised to farmer or grazier till provision be made for taxing those who hold some of the most valuable land in the country without making a reasonable return to the State for the advantages received." Proposed by Mr. P. Brennan, seconded by Mr. G. Hosking, jun.,—"That the proposal to submit for tender conflicting applications for conditional purchases, instead of deciding by ballot as at present, is highly objectionable, as it would give the capitalist too great an advantage over the small buyer." The meeting was also decidedly opposed to the provision in clause 89 of the new bill that an applicant for a conditional purchase should pay the cost of survey.

THE SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

PENRITH, MONDAY.

The interest manifested in the approaching boat race is increasing daily in Penrith and the surrounding district, and the excitement will be very great before the eventful 26th arrives. Things have assumed a livelier aspect here since the arrival of the ex-champion and his attendants. The people recognise Hanlan wherever he goes, and hearty expressions of goodwill are tendered to the famous oarsman. The weather to-day has been fine, although heavy bankers have been working up from a southerly direction since noon, so that we may get another downpour ere long. The scullers have done good work to-day, and are now taking their much-needed repose. Beach and Peter Kemp went for a long walk at an early hour this morning. At 11 o'clock the champion got afloat, intending to take his usual spin on the river. Kemp did not accompany Beach in his row, his place being taken by Nelson, who used Peter's boat. The scullers did a steady pull over the course at about three-quarters' speed. In the afternoon the Illawarra oarsman and his trainer went out on the river, the surface of which was as smooth as the proverbial millpond. Beach used one of his best boats, the "Jack Smith." The champion paddled down to the railway bridge, and then turned, shooting away up the stream at a rate of 27 strokes to the minute. Beach was closely attended by Kemp, whose style of rowing was as admirable as ever. After passing the boatshed on the eastern bank of the river, the pace was slackened to 26 strokes per minute, and at this rate the row was continued right through until nearing home, when the champion spurted in fine style, the closing mile being a hard row. Beach is in excellent health, although he looks a little drawn about the face. By some it is thought that he is training too severely, but the champion's splendid physique enables him to stand an amount of hard work that would assuredly kill weaker mortals than he.

Hanlan and Perkins went for a long walk before breakfast this morning. As the air was cool and bracing, the Canadian and his trainer enjoyed the exercise immensely. After breakfast Hanlan walked from the Commercial to Mr. John Brown's grounds, where his boats are kept. Perkins and he got afloat as soon as possible, and did a good row right up to the starting point. Good work was done by the Canadian, who, striking 30 strokes to the minute, rowed away from Perkins when he liked. The Canadian met Beach and Nelson up the river. In the afternoon Hanlan did another good row over a portion of the course, finishing in grand style. The Toronto sculler is in good health and spirits, and he appears to have settled down to his work in real earnest. If he improves upon the form he displays at the present time a good race is expected. Mr. Jordan, of Ryde, and Chris. Nelson, the sculler, who came up to visit Beach, returned to Sydney this afternoon.

In conversation with Hanlan this evening, he expressed the pleasure it gave him to row on the Nepean again, which he said was one of the finest sheets of water in the world, and formed a magnificent course for the championship or any other boat race. The Canadian says he finds the distance to be rowed about the same as on the Parramatta championship course. It takes him about the same time to row from start to finish on the Nepean as he would require to pull over the Parramatta course with a young flood. At present there is a slight fresh in the river, which has subsided considerably during the past three days. Hanlan states it takes 574 strokes, at his average rate of speed, to enable him to cover the whole of the course from start to finish. The bathing-house which has been erected for Hanlan on the western bank of the Nepean close down to the water's edge has been removed to the rear of the shed in which he keeps his boats. As the bathing place now stands near the dressing-room, it will be found very handy and convenient. Hanlan's new boat, built by Sullivan, of North Shore, has been christened The Nepean. This craft is constructed on the same lines as the R. A. Watson, but, if anything, she will be a little lighter than the latter boat when she is fitted up. This craft should prove very fast on the dead waters of the Nepean. Beach and Hanlan had a consultation at Mrs. Squire's Hotel to-night with reference to the course to be pursued in order to provide for the comfort of the spectators on the day of the race. It was eventually decided that Messrs. Jack Thompson, R. A. Watson, and T. R. Smith should be empowered to make the necessary arrangements. An effort is to be made to have the road leading to the river by the side of the hotel closed on the day of the race. A splendid view of the finish of the contest can be obtained from the river bank at the rear of Squire's Hotel. If this ground were fenced in, and steps taken to provide for the comfort of spectators by erecting seats or a kind of grand stand, the public would doubtless be willing to pay a fair sum for admission, and the proceeds could be divided between the scullers. Mr. T. R. Smith and Penrith friends intend to entertain Beach and Hanlan at a picnic on Monday next. Steam launches will be engaged for the occasion, and if the weather holds fine the affair should prove successful. It should also be stated that Mr. T. R. Smith has made arrangements with the railway authorities which will allow the latter to use the Emu Boulder Company's siding, so that they will have no trouble in taking a steam launch from Penrith to the Nepean.

AMUSEMENTS.

MISS AMY SHERWIN'S CONCERTS.

Miss Amy Sherwin gives the first of her promised two concerts to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. Doubtless a large number of people will be glad to welcome the return of the popular singer, and the programme arranged for Wednesday promises to be of exceptional interest, being, indeed, the best that Miss Sherwin's company has yet presented. Miss Sherwin will sing "Dove Sono" of Mozart; the air, with variations (by Benedict), "Carneval de Venise," and Osborne's "Who's at my window," with flute obligato by Signor Pagnotti. Herr Rhodes, the popular violinist, will play Sarasate's great "Carmen" fantasia, Rubinstein's melody in F, and Kowalski's "It etait une fois," besides a fantasia on Scotch airs. We are glad to note the engagement of Mr. Huenerbein as accompanist, and of Mons. Henri Kowalski as solo pianist. The latter will play Chopin's grand A flat major "Polonaise," and his own "Galop di Bravura." Perhaps the chief point of interest will be found in the celebrated Mendelssohn violin "Concerto," which will be interpreted by Herr Rhodes and Mons. Kowalski. The performances of this great work by Wilhelmj and Remenyi will probably be fresh in the memories of most; and it is commonly said that this is the best of Herr Rhodes's solos. There will be only one concert beside this on Wednesday.

THE ALHAMBRA MUSIC HALL.

The Alhambra Music Hall was crowded to overflowing last evening, and a capital programme of music, dancing, comicality, eccentricity, and farce was performed, to the very great entertainment of the audience. In the first part a number of new songs were sung, and novel jokes were showered on the audience by the coloured gentlemen. Amongst the songsters the most deserving of merit are—Misses Florence Schuler, Annie Lewis, May Melville, and Messrs. Percy Shannon, W. Ryan, and Tom Holland. Messrs. Keenan and Moynham were immense in their absurdities, and Mr. Perry Ryan won the intense favour of the "gods" by his merryandrew-like performances. The comical doings of Messrs. Walsh and King were very much enjoyed, and the Misses Ryan, Spencer, Schuler, Wilson, and Mackay were generally admired for their graceful movements in a Spanian dance. The evening's fun was concluded with the presentation of Sam Keenan's farce, "The Yellow Novel Heroes." The same programme will be repeated this evening.

The Government Printing Office Dramatic and Musical Club held its monthly reunion at the New Masonic Hall last evening. The attendance was very large, and included many friends of the club and some of the head officers of the establishment. The programme was long and varied, and was gone through without the slightest hitch. The drawing-room scene used for the comedietta, "A Miniature Breeze," was the work of several members of the club, and this being their first attempt at anything of the kind they are deserving of high commendation. During the evening the president of the club, Mr. F. J. Ironside, announced that £7 6s. had lately been divided between two applicants for pecuniary aid. The piano used was kindly lent by Messrs. Bruce and Massey, and the drawing-room suite by Mr. J. Devenish. Mr. E. A. Engel acted as accompanist, Mr. Lansley as stage manager, and Mr. Thompson as musical director.

VISIT OF THE MINISTER FOR WORKS TO YASS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

YASS, MONDAY.

The Hon. John Sutherland was entertained at a picnic at Taemas Bridge on Saturday. Mr. Colls, M.L.A., in a complimentary speech, proposed the Minister's health. Mr. Sutherland, in replying, expressed himself satisfied with his visit. He was satisfied that repairs were wanted at Black Bog, and he gave instructions for the erection of a culvert, and said that nothing would be wanting on his part to bring the railway into Yass. Alderman Thompson proposed the health of the Mayor, Mr. Iceton. In alluding to Mr. Colls, he said that as member for Yass he had done more for the district during the short time he had been in Parliament than all the previous representatives of Yass put together. Mr. Iceton suitably acknowledged the toast. Mr. R. W. Pearson proposed,—"The healths of the engineer, the superintendent, and the contractor." Mr. Deburgh replied for the former, and Mr. Taylor for the two latter. The party returned to Yass at 5 o'clock. The Minister inspected the post-office, courthouse, gaol, the new Oddfellows' Hall, and other public buildings. He also inspected the lines of the proposed tramway for Yass. One line comes through the gardens of Mr. Colls, M.L.A., at Albury Villa, North Yass, and Mr. Colls said that if the line were adopted he would give the land to the Government for nothing. Mr. M. Coen made a similar offer as to his land in Yass. The Minister returned to Sydney by the mail on Sunday night.

THE PHYLLOXERA AND THE FRUIT GROWERS.

We have received a lengthy communication from Mr. Henry Bonnard, of Vitis Park, with regard to the Phylloxera and the Fruit-growers, in reply to a letter on the same subject from Mr. L. Frere, which appeared in our issue of the 11th instant. The letter is too long for reproduction in its entirety, but we give below the more important portions of it.

After referring to Mr. Frere's letter denying to the Fruit-growers' Union the right of being in any way consulted with reference to the destruction of vineyards, Mr. Bonnard goes on to say:—"Mr. Frere cannot be aware that there are over 500 families in this county alone who mainly depend upon the returns of fully 2000 acres of vines for the support of themselves and families, and the meeting of their Government taxes and commercial obligations. If the wine-makers prevail upon the Government to take away the small, individually, but on the aggregate, large vine plantations of the fruit-growers, the wine-makers or the Government will ruin many of these, unless they are to receive the full capital which their investment, industry, and years of labour represent to them. This the winemakers do not offer to pay, and the colony cannot afford to do it to a large number of people, especially if each was owning an extensive area of vines. But the Fruit-growers' Union has looked at the matter from a broad and national point of view rather than from a narrowly interested position. There are more fruit-growers and more fruits, including vines, grown in the county of Cumberland than in all the other parts of the colony put together, whilst the value of such fruits far exceeds that of the wine produced in New South Wales. Therefore, if any noxious insect or disease spreads about, this county will feel it quicker and deeper than any other. Surely, then, when the Government intends to legislate, it seems only fair that the growers of Cumberland should be listened to, especially when the prayers of their petitions are carefully considered. Why not leave it, as desired by the Fruit-growers' Union, to the interested parties to combine amongst themselves against their foes? The Legislature of New South Wales has already recognised this principle when the Stock and Pastures Protection Acts were enacted, and there is no reason why similar enactments should not be granted now to the fruit-growers, when they themselves ask to be similarly treated as the graziers, and to be entrusted to look after their own interests at their own cost? It is perfectly true that nothing in Europe, not even the rooting up of vines, could, at any cost, stop the march of the insect, notwithstanding the large premiums offered by the Governments, the assistance of military labour, and the help of the highest scientific authorities in the world. Now, in these colonies, we have only unskilled, expensive, unreliable, and undisciplined labour; we have not by far the highest scientific authorities in the world with us, and there is no Government premium. How, then, can we expect to succeed when and where people much better provided, have so persistently failed in all attempts at stamping out, and have had to submit to some modus vivendi?

"Had the so-called stamping-out process been resorted to as soon as the vines were affected, or even as soon as the insect was seen at Camden, years ago, there might have been a faint hope of success; but now there is not the slightest chance, considering that for at least the last five or six years the phylloxera has been spreading at will, in every direction, at the rate of several millions of young ones every year for each head of the previous season, and is still doing so; although nobody is likely to find out for some time to come the actual extension of the pest. As to the work of rooting up vines, so as to effectually stamp out the insect, even if it could have that result, Mr. Frere, if he knew the natural history of the insect, or would reflect over the nature, length, and cost of the work he asks the Government to do, he, Mr. Frere, good and practical a man as he is, would soon give it up as a bad and impracticable job. Would it not be far better, as asked by the Fruit-growers' Union, for all interested parties to benefit at once by the experience of other countries, and to combine together, acting jointly in each district, under the supervision of locally-elected boards, so as to keep their vines healthy, alive, and bearing fruits, in spite of the phylloxera? This modus vivendi will have to be submitted to sooner or later, as is now the case against the oidium, which at one time was also legislated against in New South Wales, but, nevertheless, is seen and felt more or less every year. At all events, before spending several thousands of pounds sterling for destroying vineyards, it would seem only rational to risk the small sum of £250 applied for by the Fruit-growers' Union.

"In writing as I do, I suppose that I shall be credited with at least as much sincerity as those whom I oppose, considering that since my return from Bordeaux to this colony, and just before the brutal Vine Diseases Act of 1886 was passed, I have invested over £2500 in planting one of the largest vineyards in the county of Cumberland, both for table grapes and wine-making, knowing fully well that in a certain soil, with abundance of water, or under certain treatment, there is very little to fear from the phylloxera, and never expecting that perhaps the most promising industry of New South Wales was about to be crushed and hampered as is now proposed."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is now over twelve months since the Phylloxera Bill was assented to. It has remained a dead letter to this date. It appears that the late and present Attorneys-General think it defective and unworkable. The Premier promised various bodies to introduce a proper bill at the commencement of the present session; but it has not made its appearance yet. The vinegrowers are to be pitied. The season is running on, the disease is spreading, and no effort is being made to destroy the pest of the vines save empty promises from the head of the Government. I am, &c.,

November 14. VINEGROWER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is pleasant to meet with a correspondent like Mr. Skeet, whose vast stores of information enable him to swoop down on every current topic in turn, and after scattering the army of free trade, to give us the "straight tip" regarding phylloxera and irrigation. He might in the same article have effectually settled the rabbit pest, and a stroke of his pen would have also explained and removed the prevailing commercial depression. Mr. Skeet, in his contribution of Monday, says: "Irrigation and inundation completely cures (?) this disease (phylloxera)." As hillsides are favourite sites for vineyards, it would have been better for Mr. Skeet to say whether he intended to convey that they should be inundated, and by what method. To kill phylloxera, land should be completely under water to the depth of some inches, a fortnight at least in winter time, when the phylloxera takes longest to destroy. In the case of a slope measuring fifty yards from crest to bottom, having a fall of, say, 1 in 15, a sheet of water to inundate it would have to be maintained ten feet deep at the lower end in order to cover the crest of the hill, killing the vines as a matter of course. How does Mr. Skeet propose to maintain this immense reservoir—for a single small hillside only, remember, to say nothing of a large area of country? Mr. Skeet goes on to say:—"This (bi-sulphide of carbon) keeps off the phylloxera, but does not cure it." This will be great news for the vignerons of the Continent. I will give a few extracts from M. Marion's work on phylloxera (a book alluded to in the recent deputation to the Premier regarding the Phylloxera Bill). After detailing the state of several vineyards in the Burgundy district, and their treatment with the bi-sulphide, M. Marion says: "It remains to render account of the insecticide results. Since the month of October, 1879, repeated diggings have failed to effect the discovery of a single insect" (p. 54)." There is the result of other cases where diseased vines were treated with the same chemical. "The fourth years' shoots are now coming out with extreme vigour, and not a single phylloxera can be found on the original scene of the attack" (p. 60). "Many dead plants testified to the antiquity of the infected patches in which the vegetation was much stunted. At the present day a complete regeneration is quite evident" (p. 62). "It is now impossible to discover a single phylloxera throughout the whole vineyard" (p. 63). And Mr. Skeet in his confidence tells us that the bi-sulphide does not cure. I will now take a third statement in Mr. Skeet's letter:—"American vines not only thrive in spite of the phylloxera, but they breed and distribute the pest." Let us see what M. Marion says on this point—"Vine-growers who have adopted the trial of American vines give us hope that the phylloxera will tend more and more to abandon these varieties" (p. 40). What is the next subject on which Mr. Skeet intends to enlighten the public? I am, &c., CAMPBELLTOWN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I notice in your issue of Saturday that a deputation representing the fruitgrowers of Central Cumberland waited upon the Premier, urging him to communicate with the Governments of Victoria and New Zealand, that the ports of those colonies should be thrown open for the introduction of New South Wales grapes.

If I do not mistake, it was this same body that lately deprecated any action on the part of the Government for the destruction of vineyards under the Phylloxera Act. Are not the fruitgrowers of Central Cumberland aware that Victoria at a very large outlay (to which, by-the-bye, New South Wales contributed) stamped out the phylloxera disease in that colony; and is it likely that Victoria would run the risk of again introducing that fell disease by grape leaves or otherwise, seeing that we have taken no steps to eradicate the disease from our colony beyond passing an Act, which has never been put into force?

Let the fruitgrowers of Central Cumberland work with the vineyard proprietors throughout the colony in pressing upon the Government the necessity of ridding this colony of a disease amongst vines which, if much longer neglected, will surely ruin a very important and growing industry.

When we have put our own house in order, it will be time enough to ask the neighbouring colonies to again take our grapes. I am, &c.,

The Shipping Gazette of October 7 says:—The tonnage loading on the berth for India, China, and the Cape of Good Hope amounts to 40,561 tons, and for Australia and New Zealand to 46,450 tons. Homeward freights from the East are wretchedly low both for sail and steam, and very little business is being done, but in most trades freights are generally higher, and have an upward tendency. The outward market both for the East and for the Mediterranean has improved, and some high rates have been paid.

The C. and R. R. S. N. Company's new steamer Electra has had a rough time of it on her first regular trip in the coasting trade. Captain Magee reports that she left the Clarence River at 11 a.m. on Saturday, called at Trial Bay the same evening and landed passengers, and arrived at Newcastle at 5.20 p.m. on Sunday, having put into that port to have her bunkers replenished, she being short of coal. She left again at 8.30 a.m. yesterday, and arrived in port at 2.45 p.m. A hard southerly gale was encountered from Clarence Heads to Newcastle, and moderate to fine weather thence to port. The Electra brings as cargo: 172 bags maize, 128 bags and 293 mats sugar, 92 bags potatoes, 7 bales wool, 18 casks tallow, 230 hides, 1 bundle sheepskins, 4 bags bones, 3 bags horns, 14 cases eggs, 10 coops fowls, 8 pigs, 25 casks ale, 25 baskets 11 cases fish, and sundries.

The French steamship Caledonien, of the M. M. Company's line, arrived in port at 6 a.m. yesterday with mails, passengers, and cargo from Noumea, and was berthed at the company's wharf, Circular Quay. The Caledonien left on the 10th instant at 11 a.m., with a light breeze from N. and N.W. and fine weather. On the 12th the wind came in hard squalls from S.W., with a heavy swell, and next day it increased to a gale, running from S.W. to S., accompanied with hard squalls and a very heavy sea, which continued till arrival.

BALMAIN REGATTA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Believing that the matter only requires to be brought under the notice of the proper authorities to be remedied, I beg to direct their attention, through you, to what I consider an injustice perpetrated by the committee of the regatta recently held at Balmain. I, with about six or seven other shipmasters, entered a crew for the ship's gig race, believing that it would be confined, as it always has been, to the crews of the merchant ships in port. To our surprise, we found on the day of the race that our untrained men would have to compete against the bluejackets of her Majesty's ships, who are constantly practising, and have boats immeasurably superior to those of the same class in the mercantile marine. The men-of-war's-men had the further advantage of rowing five oars to our (with one exception) four; and the result of the race was therefore, as far as our boats were concerned, a foregone conclusion. I have always taken a great interest in the regattas held in the harbour, and have endeavoured, so far as lay in my power, by entering my boats and inducing other fellow-shipmasters to do the same, to make them successful. My only object now in writing to you is to continue in the same direction—to induce the committee to in the future have a race for merchant ships' boats only, and let the bluejackets contend among themselves. If they do not adopt this suggestion I am certain that at the next regatta few, if any, shipmasters will allow their boats to enter. Yours, &c.,

ROBT. CROMBIE,
Master ship Port Jackson.

The Minister for Mines has received the following telegram from Mr. George T. Nolan, of Orange:—"I have discovered what I think will prove a rich deposit of stream tin at Orange; or heavy black sand studded through with small rubies. Will register a parcel to-day to your department."

Lubra Silver-mining Company.—Mining manager telegraphs November 12:—"Past week sunk 4ft. Another very hard bar met with in shaft."

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Sunny Corner Silver-mining Company, Limited.—The secretary reports that during the week ended 12th instant three reverberatory and one Pacific furnaces ran full time, reducing 78 tons of gossan ore, 130 tons roasted black mineral, 47 tons raw tailings, 36 tons fine dust, and 39 tons litharge; product of which is now being broken, sampled, &c., and estimated assay value will be published in due course. Estimated assay value of product for week ended 5th instant, £1065. The mine: Black mineral sent to the kilns for the week ended 12th instant broken from the south shaft workings, eastern side of middle block, and from the level that is being driven south through the latter. Still breaking a small quantity of gossan from the No. 4 block. One Pacific running on gossan, litharge, and flue dust, to run the litharge into bullion and enrich it for shipment. Reverberatory furnaces doing good work. The inclement weather of the middle of the week has retarded the construction of No. 4 furnace. Expect to get the bricks, being made, delivered next week, when more bricklayers will be employed on it.

Webb's Silver-mining Company.—Messrs. Watt and Dodds have received the following from the mining manager, under date November 11th:—Furnaces—The shed for furnaces is fast approaching completion, and we shall make a start on brickwork on Monday next; the hearth and part of the arch bricks being now burnt, and ready for use. The heavy rain on Tuesday caused some delay in this matter, as well as in the other works, but it was, nevertheless, a great benefit to us, as we have now sufficient water in the shafts to supply bricklayers and keep vats continually filled without it being necessary to cart same from the dam, as we have had to do of late. Mine—Since my last the south drive at the 52ft. level, No. 2 shaft, has been extended 1ft. 6in., the ground is hard; and, although the whole face carries spots and veinlets of ore, I cannot estimate its present value at more than ½-ton of best ore per fathom. It appears, however, to be improving. We are still timbering in No. 6 shaft.

Ravenswood Silver-mining Company.—Messrs. Watt and Dodds have received the following report from the mining manager, under date November 5th:—During the past fortnight 678 tons have been put through the jigger; 31 tons of seconds have been stacked at grass, and 15 tons of mill ore have been raised. 160-feet level, north end has been driven 7ft. during the last two weeks, making a total distance from crosscut of 418ft. M'Coll's drive has been continued 21ft., and the lode is looking well. Poole's drive south of crosscut is in 14ft. 6in. 100ft. level, Gordon's eastern drive, has been driven 5ft., making a total distance from main level of 83ft. The stopes throughout the mine are looking well. The machinery is all in good working order."

Glen Elgin Gold Sluicing Company.—The mining manager's progress report for the month of October states:—Work in the cutting has been confined to removing the softer portions of the bar of rock, which are readily carried away by the stream of water employed, as, after having been blasted out, it can be readily broken into small pieces. When the softer rock is removed we shall blast away the harder, which will have to be removed by hauling, as it cannot be broken sufficiently small to be carried away by water. We shall be able to get on very well without a steam drill, which at first appeared necessary. Aked's race is still running, but the water it supplies is not enough to do the work without the aid of the pump. The engine and pump are in good order, and everything is going on well, and as quickly as the nature of the stone will permit.

Pinnacle Group Silver-mining Company, Limited, November 3.—Machinery working very well. Mr. Krupp is making alterations for regulating the feeding of vanners. Crushing started to-day. Tenders for roofing in machinery returnable on the 4th instant. Winze holed through to lower levels. N.W. level extended 22ft. from chamber; lode looking very well. S.E. drive in 16ft. from chamber; lode here somewhat disturbed. Average assays for week, 41oz. silver, 20 per cent. lead to the ton. Tenders invited for extending both drives. Vanners turning out some good concentrates. Ore being bagged for market.

GULGONG, MONDAY.

Mr. W. Slee, Inspector of Mines, and Mr. C. Wilkinson, Government Geologist, arrived this morning to report on the applications received for aid from the prospecting grant. This afternoon they inspected the site of the "Ole Solems" application, four miles west from here.

INVERELL, MONDAY.

Additional extensive operations are now being carried out at the various portions of the Wheal Herbert mine to-day. A crosscut shaft was started about 100ft. south-west from the old Bischoff shaft. This is expected to meet a parallel reef. The Lion reef is another in the same position, opened up some years ago. The prospects were then really very good, but the original prospectors had no proper mode of treating the ore, and work was consequently abandoned. A new shaft has now been sunk on this lode, and it is expected to strike the reef at a depth of about 60ft., in the course of a few days from the present. With regard to the crushing machinery, an experienced engineer is expected in a day or two, and he will at once proceed to put in thorough order everything connected with the battery. At the main alluvial working there are about 200 tons of washdirt at grass. A washing was to begin to-day. There is a plentiful supply of water in the dam, so there will be no delay, and the quantity named should be put through within a fortnight. The New Horse pumping gear has been erected, and everything in connection with the property is in thorough working order. The company is paying about £400 a month in working expenses.

ORANGE, MONDAY.

Word is to hand that Haselhurst's mine at Parkes, now being floated, is raising magnificent stone in large quantities. A satisfactory crushing is expected next week.

LONDON WOOL SALES.

From the European Mail of October 7 we extract the following:—

"The fourth series of colonial wool sales for the current year, which opened in London on September 6, were brought to a close on October 5; the catalogues of the series having comprised an average total of 10,500 bales. 21,000 bales Australian and 15,000 Capes have been brought in during the course of the sales, but of this much has been re-catalogued, or otherwised disposed of. Of the quantity sold, about 45 per cent. has been taken for export, including some 1200 bales for the U.S.A. The market during these sales has followed very closely the current of opinion in regard to the future, as formed at various centres of manufacture, especially those of France and Germany. Beginning in some uncertainty, but with a hopeful tone, it appeared at one time likely that good wools might ultimately show a substantial advance—and indeed superior merino Australasians have sold throughout a little better than at the close of the July auctions. Unfortunately, however, these descriptions formed but a very small proportion of the total offerings, and, as trade reports from the Continent, and to some extent from the home districts, became more discouraging, competition grew very slack for all qualities which were in large supply. At present, medium to inferior merino greasies must be quoted ½d to 1d, medium scoured 1d, and short inferior or faulty ditto 1d to 2d lower. Medium and strong crossbred greasy remains unchanged, but the finest qualities show a decline of ½d., and scoured of all grades ½d to 1d per lb. The Cape market sympathised closely with that for Australasian merinos, viz., while greasy parcels of good staple and superior snow-whites about maintained their value, short-grown greasies and fleece-washed wools ruled ½d to 1d, and short, faulty country scoured and snow-whites 1½d to 2d below July closing rates. Unfortunate and disappointing as this result confessedly is, it cannot, remark Messrs. Willans and Overbury, occasion surprise. Stocks of tops are said to be large, and the demand for yarns is distinctly on the decline, this latter feature having become much aggravated since the sales commenced. In the meantime, accounts from Australia arriving by every mail give a most favourable report of the ensuing clip, both as regards quality and quantity, and telegraphic advices show that shipments by steamer are being actively pushed forward. Moreover, the withdrawals on this occasion have been on an unusual scale, it being estimated that no less than 35,000 bales will be carried over to November. Under these circumstances, the reserve and hesitation of buyers, and the flat tone with which the sales close, are not to be wondered at, but doubtless the current low rates will stimulate consumption, and it may well happen that an improved demand will spring up before the close of the year."

PRODUCE MARKET—MONDAY.

This morning Darling Harbour sales were well attended by the trade. Fairly good supplies of wood and forage were offered. There was a strong demand for all classes of forage, especially for wheaten hay, and values were firm. In wood steady competition was experienced. At the wharfs moderate supplies were forward from Clarence River, Southern ports, and neighbouring colonies, whilst some of the usual river steamers were detained by the boisterous weather on the coast. Business opened quietly. Maize and new potatoes were firmer, other lines were unaltered. At Darling Harbour sales the following values were realised:—

Wood.—Fair supplies. Good lots sold readily; for other sorts the demand was quiet. Billet, 9s to 10s 6d per ton; bundle, 11s to 15s 6d; foot, 10s to 14s; bakers', 8s 6d to 11s 6d.

Hay.—Larger market than at previous sales. Competition was animated, wheaten hay commanding the greatest attention. Prices were firmer. Best oaten, in bundles, 4s 2d to 4s 10d per cwt. other kinds, 3s 6d to 3s 11d; lucerne, in truss, 2s 4d to 2s 6d; wheaten, in bundles, 3s 11d to 5s 1d; sheaves, 3s 11d to 4s 4d; oaten and wheaten, in bundles, 3s; lucerne in truss and wheaten, sheaves, 2s 9d; oaten, in bundles and bales, 2s 11d to 4s.

Chaff.—Moderate consignments, but with a large proportion of indifferent quality. Oaten, in bag, 3s 10d to 4s 7d per cwt.; inferior, from 1s 1d to 2s 2d.

On the wharfs this morning the following were the wholesale quotations:—

Maize.—Light arrivals this morning, caused by the boisterous weather which is prevalent on the coast detaining river shipments. The market firmer at 3s 11d to 4s per bushel; African white maize quoted, 3s 6d.

Oats.—Stocks supplemented by 2083 bags from New Zealand this morning. Bright stout heavy feed steady at 2s to 2s 2d per bushel; medium and dark sorts, from 1s 10d; seed, to 2s 3d. Respecting the Christchurch market, New Zealand, under date, November 8th, Messrs. Kaye and Carter write:—Oats are without alteration in value, but the considerably reduced stocks reported from Otago and Southland tend to firmness in our prices. The actual sales are limited.

Barley.—Best Cape seed unimproved at 3s to 3s 3d per bushel.

Bran.—Remains slack at 7½d per bushel.

Pollard.—Worth 7½d to 8d per bushel.

Hay.—Limited supplies from the Hunter River this morning. Prime dry green lucerne remains steady at £3 10s to £5 per ton; other kinds, from 30s.

Potatoes.—New descriptions from the Clarence River are firmer and quoted at £5 per ton. Circular Head are slack, from 23s to 32s 6d per ton; New Zealand, from 20s.

Butter.—No change. Best Illawarra, dairy sorts, 5d to 6d per lb.; roll, 5d; factory-made, 6d to 8d.

Cheese.—612 from the Southern ports yesterday. Ordinary colonial descriptions weak, at 2d to 4d per lb.; loaf cheese, 5d.

Bacon.—An active demand still recorded. Hand-cured southern, 6½d to 7d; machine-cured 6d to 6½d per lb.; heavy and rough pieces, 3d to 5d; hams, 6d to 10d.

Lard.—Finely rendered, in bladders, slack at 3d per lb; in bulk, from 2d.

Honey.—Good and clear worth 4d to 5d per lb.; other kinds, from 2½d.

Eggs.—Rather small additions to stocks this morning. Quotations, 1s 3d to 1s 4d per dozen.

Poultry.—Steady request at per pair:—Fowls, 3s to 4s 9d; ducks, 3s 3d to 5s; geese, 7s to 9s; turkeys, 7s to 12s.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, at their grain sale today offered 1491 sacks oats, and with the exception of one lot sold privately after the sale were cleared at from 2s for medium samples, and from 2s 1d to 2s 2½d for prime bright heavy feed. Maize sold privately at from 3s 11s to 4s.

Sing Sing, N. Y., May 27, 1886. I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS for the last 15 years in my family, and can conscientiously recommend them as invaluable when applied where pain is to be relieved. Two years ago I contracted pneumonia from a heavy cold, and during my convalescence, and in the Winter months since, have worn one on each lung across my back and have experienced great benefit therefrom, and was relieved from a threatened return in less than 24 hours. IRA J. GRIFFIN, Bookkeeper First National Bank.—[ADVT.]

MISS MARY ANDERSON, our beautiful cousin, is good enough to say of PEARS' SOAP:—"I have used it for two years with the greatest satisfaction, for I find it the very best." PEARS' Soap for toilet and nursery. Specially prepared for the delicate skin of ladies and children.—[ADVT.]

In the list of stations the column headed W.T. gives the state of the weather at 9 a.m., b, standing for blue sky; c, detached clouds; d, drizzling rain; f, fog; g, gloomy; h, hazy; m, misty; n, frosty; o, overcast; p, passing showers; r, rain; s, snow; t, thunder; u, threatening. The next column, M'x gives the maximum temperature for previous 24 hours; M'n the corresponding minimum temperature; R'n, the rain for the previous 24 hours. The symbols used in the map are explained on the margin. At each coast station the wind symbol is placed like a vane pointing to the direction from which the wind is coming. A clear circle with it means fine weather; a circle with bar, cloudy weather; and a black spot, raining. Next to this symbol are placed figures denoting the number of miles the wind is moving per hour; next, a symbol showing the state of the sea; and, lastly, figures denoting the shade temperature at 9 a.m. The barometer curve shows the state of barometers round the coast from Perth to Cooktown:—Pt, Perth; Ay, Albany; Ea, Eucla; CB, Cape Borda; A, Adelaide; Re, Robe; P, Portland; M, Melbourne; W P, Wilson's Promontory; Go, Gabo; E, Eden; Ma, Moruya; C G, Jervis Bay; Wg, Wollongong; S, Sydney; N, Newcastle; P M, Port Macquarie; C, Clarence River; B, Brisbane; R, Rockhampton; Ct, Cooktown. Inland the state of barometer is given in figures at Albury, Deniliquin, Wentworth, Menindie, Bourke, and Alice Springs. The barometer curve enables one at a glance to trace the depressions, beginning with Western Australia, and passing along eastwards; northerly winds preceding them, and southerly following.

The rainfall on Sundays or holidays, when this map is not published, is in all cases included in the quantities shown by the next following map.

NEW ISSUE OF SHARES.

The present revival in colonial enterprise invites the resubmission of the shares of this Company, withdrawn during the recent period of extreme depression.

Advantage has been taken of this interval to perfect all arrangements. Its assurance and investment departments are now well founded, its present capital carefully invested, and, no addition being necessary for the continuance of its assurance business, no increase of capital would be sought were it not that the Directors are compelled to meet the requirements of the Legislature by a large increase of capital before application for a Special Act of Incorporation.

Fortunately, the founders of the Company having wisely followed the example of the most prosperous "Trust" Companies established elsewhere, by combining in one institution, but under distinct departments, the business of "Trust" Management with that of Life Assurances and Investments in Mortgages of Real Property, are able to employ a large capital with considerable profit, the experience of the Company during the past year having shown that while the field for employment of capital in first-class mortgages is almost without limit, such advances tend to bring much "Trust" Management and Life Assurance Business. With these opportunities for profitable investment the Directors confidently offer the balances of a SECOND ISSUE OF 20,000 £5 GUARANTEED PREFERENCE SHARES,
THIRD ISSUE OF 90,000 £1 PREFERENCE SHARES, upon the terms above and in the Prospectus more fully stated.

The Fourth Issue is reserved for allotment in London.

GREAT SUCCESS OF TRUST COMPANIES.

Trust Associations in active operation in Holland for nearly a century, and in South Africa for over thirty years, have so won the confidence of the public that there are now no less than eighteen such Companies quoted in the "Cape of Good Hope Prices Current," nearly all of which unite the business of the management of "Trusts" with "Assurance" and "Guarantee" operations. RECENT QUOTATIONS to APRIL LAST SHOW CONSIDERABLE INCREASES in their DIVIDENDS. In proof of this, attention is requested to the following tabulated quotations from the "South African Share List," revised to the 31st March last, of the amount paid up and selling price per share, and the annual dividends paid, and their equivalent yield per cent. per annum:—

Name of Company.	—	Paid.	Price.	Dividend.	Profit

Transvaal Ex's and Trust Co.	1879	0 10	3	0 7 6	75

*The shares of the three companies firstly mentioned in the above list are nominally £200, with £10 paid, the balance of £190 being guaranteed by deposit of securities or cash, as in the case of the "guaranteed shares" of this company.

The above quotations show the unparalleled dividends secured by original investments in shares of a "Trust" Company when made at its commencement, so as to secure the advance of profits from its foundation. Similar companies have also been established in Sweden, and 12 in New York, Chicago, and other principal cities of the United States; five in Victoria, one in South Australia, one in New Zealand, and one other has recently commenced operations in this colony, THE PERPETUAL; its shares, 5s paid, sell at 13s, giving a premium of £160 per cent.

Space forbids any tabulated record of the American companies, but of those near home it may be noticed that the Company first established in Melbourne (1878) already pays dividends of £27 per cent., and its shares of £1 paid sell at £7 per share, giving a profit of £600 per cent. Others, not so long established, are selling at a smaller premium. TRUST COMPANIES, IT IS CLEAR, MAY CLAIM TO NET THE LARGEST RETURN UPON CAPITAL OF ANY FINANCIAL INSTITUTION. Life Assurance Companies yield in well-established associations from £30 to £85 per cent.; and the bulk of our "Land and Mortgage" Societies pay £20 per cent. As this Company combines all these operations, a small profit of but £6 per cent. from each department will give an early dividend of £18 per cent. with continued increases year by year as additional capital is introduced.

APPLICATIONS for SHARES may be made through any Broker, or direct to the Company, at the Chief Offices, corner of King and Elizabeth streets, Sydney.

PROSPECTUS
BRITISH BROKEN HILL PROPRIETARY COMPANY, Limited.

Capital ... ... £1,200,000.

In 240,000 Shares of £5 each, payable £1 on application, £1 on allotment, £1 10s in two months, £1 10s in four months.

The sum of £576,000 cash and 80,000 Shares to go to the Shareholders in the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Limited, the balance of 160,000 Shares to be offered to the public in England and Australia simultaneously.

Australian Directors:
A. B. BLACKWOOD, Esq.
W. P. MACGREGOR, Esq.
W. B. WILSON, Esq.

This Company is being formed for the purpose of working Blocks 15 and 16 of the Broken Hill Proprietary's Company's Property. Acting under the authority of a special general meeting of the parent company held on the 28th July last, the Directors decided to float the Company on the London market, and Messrs. M'Culloch and Knox were deputed to proceed to England; and they have arranged with Messrs. Jardines, Matheson, and Co. to place the property on the London market, and the prospectus is published simultaneously with this. Cables have been received from London stating that a large number of applications is certain. The Directors feel that it is unnecessary to further refer to the property, the Broken Hill Proprietary mine being so well known, and deem it only necessary to publish the following short report of Mr. Patton's, which has been cabled to London:—

"The vein on Blocks 15 and 16 is the northerly extension of the main lode now yielding so largely. In parent blocks exploration, especially on Block 15, on which most work has been done, shows it to be strong and well defined, carrying lead carbonate assaying from 10 to 150 oz. silver, and 30 to 50 per cent. of lead. I consider prospect excellent for developing great value in depth."

Owing to the extremely short notice received from England, immediate application is necessary.

Form of application is annexed.

A brokerage of 2s per share on all shares allotted will be paid to the recognised brokers.

Applications for shares will be received by the Bank of Australasia at Melbourne, Adelaide, Sydney, Broken Hill, Silverton, Hobart, and Brisbane.

SILENCE IS GOLDEN.—In the home circle it is extremely disagreeable to be annoyed with discordant sounds. We expect to leave noise and bustle in the busy city, and come to our home for quiet—and after all perhaps we find a whirring rackety sewing-machine, clattering away as if noise was a special requirement in the art of sewing. The remedy for this evil is to put the noisy pest in an outhouse, and buy in its stead one of those SILENT MACHINES known as the AUTOMATIC, or Self-regulating, which give no trouble—make no noise—are liked by all who buy them; can be used by the delicate invalid with safety, and are real home treasures.
